Our beautiful Poconos

There are many forms of pollution and one of the most predominant in the Poconos is eye pollution caused by neglect of property. The property in this particular case, located on Stofflet St., Stroudsburg is not only pollution, but a safety hazard. The porch was in such condition of disrepair that it collapsed — fortunately when no one was walking into the home.

7th Fleet warships attacked in Tonkin

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. 7th Fleet warships in the Tonkin Gulf were attacked for the first time in the Vietnam War Wednesday and one ship was damaged by North Vietnamese MIGs and fast patrol boats, the U.S. command said. Return fire shot down one MIG and sank two patrol boats.

The ground war moved closer to Saigon when Communist forces launched heavy attacks against the district capital of Dau Tieng at the edge of the old Michelin rubber plantation 40 miles north of Saigon.

But in northern South Vietnam, Communist troops came under heavy aerial attack and abandoned Artillery Base Anne, 20 miles northwest of Hue, which had been captured during the first week of the 21-day offensive.

The U.S. command said four sailors were wounded aboard the U.S. destroyer Higbee which was damaged in the North Vietnamese attack. The command said the Higbee was damaged by missiles either from the MIGs or high-speed surface craft similar to PT boats.

The American destroyer Sterett downed the MIG and sank the two patrol boats, the command said.

The North Vietnamese had not attacked American warships except by shore batteries since the twin Tonkin Gulf incidents against the destroyers Maddox and Turner Joy in August, 1964. Those alleged patrol boat attacks led to the Gulf of Tonkin resolution in Congress, heavy air raids against North Vietnam and direct American intervention in the ground war.

UPI correspondent Stewart Kellerman reported that South Vietnamese troops in northernmost Quang Tri province advanced steadily west from Dong Ha along east-west Highway 9 and met only sporadic Communist resistence. The force of 5,000 men were 10 miles south of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and stayed south of the Cua Viet River, which parallels the highway, Kellerman said.

The MIG attacks against the 7th Fleet ships marked the first time the Soviet-built jets were used except against U.S. warplanes raiding the north.

In ground action, Communist troops Wednesday captured a district capital on South Vietnam's central coast and launched new attacks against three government positions within 40 miles of Saigon.

In Cambodia, Communist forces continued their push along vital Highway 1 near the border, almost occupying one city and cutting off a provincial capital.

Democrats escalate attack on Nixon's bombing policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Democrats in both houses of Congress escalated their attack on President Nixon's bombing policy Wednesday while Nixon made plans to address the nation in the battle for public opinion.

It was learned that Nixon would go on nationwide radio and television one day next week to explain and defend the decision to resume bombing of North Vietnam and to announce a new goal for withdrawals after the troop level falls below 69,000 by May 1.

House Democrats meeting in closed caucus agreed to take a vote today on a resolution designed to force a reluctant House Foreign Affairs Committee —generally a war policy supporter —to send antiwar legislation to the house floor.

Twenty-eight senators took part in an intense, four and a half hour debate over the bombing. Republicans ridiculed Democratic "yelping" and said Hanoi was counting on just such a "kneejerk reaction."

In reply, Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, denounced the new step in the war as "barbaric, inhumane and obscene."

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., demanded that Nixon either set a date for total withdrawal or follow President Lyndon B. Johnson's precedent and renounce re-election hopes to "remove any appearance of political motivation in the further conduct of this war."

"Our problem, the nation's problem, is that President Nixon still thinks he must prove America's manhood," Cranston said. "He still looks upon Vietnam as a test of America's courage and perseverance . . ."

Cranston later interrupted the debate to read the Senate a wire service bulletin reporting a Mig attack on U.S. Navy vessels off the North Vietnamese coast.

"Is that Vietnamization?" he asked. "Is that an indication that the Vietnamese can 'hack it' on their own? I think the evidence answers the question."

Apollo astronauts to land on moon 3:41 p.m. today

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Apollo 16's astronauts rocketed in orbit Wednesday night to within less than 13 miles above their boulder strewn landing site in the moon's cratered highlands, so close they felt as though they were "clipping the tops of the trees off."

Charles M. Duke Jr., an Air Force jet pilot on his first space flight, exclaimed "That was the best high-speed pass I've ever made!" as the spacecraft swept over the mountain plateau where he and mission commander John W. Young are to land at 3:41 p.m. EST today.

On their fourth orbit, Duke reported instruments monitoring the spaceship's electrical system displayed an abnormal reading while command ship pilot Thomas K. "Ken" Mattingly was operating the craft's mapping camera. The caution light flashed on again five minutes later. Ground controllers quickly began studying engineering reports from the ship to see if anything was amiss.

The astronauts swooped smoothly into lunar orbit in midafternoon with a 6-minute, 15-second firing of their main rocket engine.

The two lunar explorers and command ship pilot Thomas K. "Ken" Mattingly II swooped smoothly into lunar orbit in midafternoon with a 6-minute, 15-second firing of their main rocket engine.

Four hours later, near the end of their second trip around the moon, they fired a second, 24.2-second burst to drop into a rollercoaster orbit ranging between 12 and 68 miles above the arid, treeless surface at 1,500 miles per hour.

When they zoomed over the landing site, a mountain valley north of the Descartes crater called the Cayley plains, the astronauts were 12.7 miles high.

They had quickly spotted the target of their $445 million, 12-day mission after they first rocketed into a looping lunar orbit 67 to 196 miles high. "Boy, is that rough!" radioed Young.

Antiwar protest mount

By United Press International

Antiwar protesters Wednesday marched on upper Broadway in New York City, picketed the Georgia Capitol in Atlanta and kept up demonstrations on campuses from coast to coast for the third consecutive day.

Most of the protests were peaceful but scuffling broke out between demonstrators who briefly took control of Columbia University's School for International Affairs and students who tried to enter the building.

Protest leaders vowed that Columbia and other New York metropolitan area campuses would be shut down by a student strike today and stepped-up demonstrations were planned at a number of colleges and universities.

In Washington, a coalition of pacifist organizations and antiwar members of Congress said they would call today for a national day of protest May 4. An aide to Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., one of the sponsors, said they would advocate mass work stoppages and any other form of protest local sponsors might favor.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, campaigning for the democratic presidential nomination, said in Harrisburg, Pa., that the nation's campuses would again be plunged into turmoil if the bombing raids in Indochina were not ended soon.

Conservationists lose battle

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court dealt environmentalists a setback Wednesday by voting 4 to 3 to bar the Sierra Club from further federal court action to stop a $35 million Walt Disney development near California's Yosemite National Park. The club, one of the nation's oldest devoted to ecology, had sought to block the development on grounds that the secretaries of Interior and Agriculture violated federal law in allowing the venture. Justice Potter Stewart, who wrote the Court's majority opinion, held that the Sierra Club was not entitled to continue its litigation because it did not show that the club itself would suffer economic or other injury from the development in the Mineral King Valley.

Ford can't meet pollution law

WASHINGTON — Ford Motor Co. testified Wednesday that unless Congress modifies the stringent exhaust-cleanup standards it probably would have to close its auto factories. In written documents backing up testimony at the Environmental Protection Agency EPA hearings, Ford said the standards were not only impossible for 1976 models but for 1976 as well. Since the Clean Air Act fixes the standards for 1975 cars and allows no more than a one-year delay under any circumstances, Ford told EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus that he should urge Congress to change the law.

Wheat pact reached

OTTAWA — An anticompetition pact on wheat sales was reached by President Nixon and Canada's Prime Minister Trudeau last week. Canadian officials, disclosing the verbal accord, insisted it doesn't represent a cartel arrangement. But they said it does provide that the two nations won't compete in certain wheat markets, and won't try to undercut each other in shared markets. U.S. Agriculture Department export officials said they weren't aware of the pact.

Pain-killer ads criticized

WASHINGTON — Deceptive advertising charges against three makers of nonprescription pain-killers were released by the Federal Trade Commission. FTC officials said the charges don't question the effectiveness of pain killers. Rather, they said, they challenge advertising that implies "there is a significant therapeutic difference between their products."

Court upholds airline taxes

WASHINGTON — Local airline passenger taxes were upheld by the Supreme Court. In a pair of cases, the justices upheld one dollar service charges assessed by Evansville, Ind., and New Hampshire for passengers boarding at their publicly owned airports.

Production soars, so does inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The administration received a mixed report on the economy Wednesday — production jumped during the first three months of this year, but inflation also soared to the highest annual rate since late 1970.

The Commerce Department reported that the Gross National Product (GNP) for the first quarter expanded by $30.3 billion, meaning the value of the nation's total output of goods and services rose at an annual rate of 11.8 per cent compared to 7.6 per cent in the last three months of 1971.

However, more than half that gain was eaten up by higher prices. The department's report, which will be revised next month when more information is in, showed inflation increasing at a 6.2 per cent annual rate in the first quarter. That is nearly four times faster than the 1.7 per cent pace of the previous three months. It was the biggest gain since the fourth quarter of 1970 when prices rose 6.3 per cent.

Commerce Secretary Peter G. Peterson said the figures showed the economy was "on target" toward the administration's forecast of about a $100 billion increase in GNP this year. The "toughest challenge," he said, was reversing the trend toward higher prices.

With the effects of inflation stripped away, the "real" growth of the economy in the first quarter was 5.3 per cent compared to 5.8 per cent in the previous quarter.

Commenting on the inflation figure, Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien said the rate of price increases "dramatizes the need for much stronger controls of profits and interest rates. Mr. Nixon's deliberate laxity in controlling profit margins is a direct cause of the soaring prices that confront Americans every day."

According to the report, first-quarter GNP grew to a $1,103.2 billion ($1.1 trillion) seasonally adjusted annual rate. In January, the administration predicted the economy would expand by $98 billion to $1,145 billion this year, an increase of 9.4 per cent.

In a separate report, the department said personal income rose $3.4 billion in March and $9 billion in February. Last month, the government put the February figure at only $5 billion.

Nine teenagers arrested for drug sales in school

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nine students from "decent, middle class homes" were arrested Wednesday on charges of selling heroin, LSD and marijuana in the halls and stairways of Evander Childs High School.

The four girls and five boys, 16 to 18 years old, were arrested at their homes in predawn raids by a 22-man squad from the Bronx District Attorney's Office. Three other students still were being sought late Wednesday.

District Attorney Burton Roberts said the charges followed a month-long investigation by two undercover detectives who bought small amounts of drugs from each of those arrested.

Roberts said all nine, as well as the three being sought, were students at Evander Childs and came "from decent, middle class homes, far from the bottom rung of our society."

The district attorney described the high school as "a drugstore" and said "most other schools throughout the city have unfortunately become drugstores, as well as places of learning."

Roberts was flanked by the two undercover detectives, both of whom wore stocking masks to conceal their appearances, at a news conference.

The district attorney said the detectives, whom he identified as Abe Bennett, 28, and "Detective X," age 30, had "no trouble gaining entry to the school and mingling with students."

He said that in effect the school served as a refuge from police patrols, and that nonstudents often would stop by to purchase drugs in the hallways and stairwells of the first and second floors. Since the investigation, he said, the school has increased its security patrols and permanently locked its three side entrances.

Roberts identified the arrested students as Gary Blue, 17, Dexter Abel, 18, Sandra Vaughn, 18, Juanita Graves, 16, Cesar Romero, 17, Kim Edge, 17, Joyce Harris, 17, Juanda Salmon, 18, and Guillermo McLean, 18. Miss Vaughn was charged with selling marijuana and Romero with LSD. The others were charged with sale of heroin.

McGovern picks up delegates

Democrats count delegate support

By United Press International

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, campaigning for the Pennsylvania presidential primary, Wednesday predicted more campus turmoil if President Nixon does not soon order an end to the bombing of North Vietnam.

The former vice president, who was jeered Tuesday by University of Pennsylvania students, told a Harrisburg news conference that continuation of the air strikes could trigger unruly demonstrations such as the campus disorders of 1967 and 1968.

"This war is driving the country half crazy," said Humphrey. "If it isn't ended, we're going to go through another unbelievable period of emotionalism, anxiety, fear and demonstrations."

Another outspoken antiwar candidate, Sen. George S. McGovern, counted a lopsided victory in Idaho's grass roots balloting for delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

In balloting in the state's 35 legislative districts, 7 of Idaho's 17 convention votes went to McGovern, 3 to Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, 2 to Rep. Shirley A.Chisholm, 1 to Humphrey and 4 were uncommitted.

Although delegates to the convention won't be chosen until a state party convention June 17, Idaho party rules require that the delegates reflect the candidate support manifested in the district caucuses.

In North Dakota, McGovern, who is from neighboring South Dakota, won 143 delegates to the state Democratic convention which will select that state's 19 delegates to the national convention.

Muskie, campaigning in Youngstown, Ohio, proposed reform of the Social Security program by shifting the burden of payment to persons with higher incomes and granting credits for dependents.

"I propose to shift $10 billion of that burden to those that carry it and the result will be a reduction in payroll taxes for 85 per cent of America's families," Muskie told a news conference.

McGovern, confident of winning in Massachusetts, meantime altered his strategy to campaign more in Pennsylvania. Both primaries are next Tuesday.

During a Pittsburgh television interview, McGovern said he had decided to concentrate on Pennsylvania because he believes his chances of winning the Keystone state's 137 delegates are now better than his original estimate.

Also campaigning in Ohio, Sen. Henry M. Jackson visited a predominantly black school and recalled his proposed legislation to increase federal aid to upgrade inferior schools.

"The local taxpayer has reached his limit in supporting the schools," said Jackson.

Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kans., the GOP national chairman, described as "gullible" and "opportunistic" the Democratic presidential hopefuls who have criticized Nixon's response to the North Vietnamese invasion of South Vietnam.

In other political developments:

--The National Public Affairs Center for Television reported in Washington that its poll of Indiana Democrats showed 39 per cent favoring Humphrey to 27 per cent for Muskie, 19 per cent for Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and 15 per cent undecided.

—In Boston, Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., who for a time was a peace candidate opposing President Nixon's nomination, asked Massachusetts voters to cast ballots for him or McGovern as "a message to President Nixon and to Congress to stop the bombing" of North Vietnam.

Huddleston trial delayed 2 weeks

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UPI) — Silous Huddleston, LaFollette, Tenn., suddenly dropped his fight to get his trial moved out of Washington County and obtained a two week postponement on a charge of murdering Joseph "Jock" Yablonski, a dissident leader of the United Mine Workers.

Counsel for the 63-year-old former miner, president of a small UMW local in Tennessee, withdrew a motion for change of venue and in turn Judge Charles Sweet postponed the trial until May 3.

The surprise moves came after almost two days of trying to obtain a jury to hear the evidence against Huddleston who was charged with handling the money to pay off the Yablonski slayers. Only one juror had been accepted. He was dismissed from duty Wednesday. If necessary, a new panel of prospective jurors will be summoned.

The announced purpose of the delay was to permit counsel to study the Commonwealth's recent report on Huddleston's health. After 10 years in the mine, he is said to have a severe case of lung disease and doctors have said his life expectancy is a year or less.

Sweet meanwhile authorized the county sheriff to transport Huddleston anywhere in Pennsylvania to undergo examinations "secretly and securely."

Huddleston was implicated by his daughter, Mrs. Annette Gilly in a 22-page confession read in court last week. That signed statement was obtained by the Federal Bureau of Investigation after Mrs. Gilly was removed from Washington County jail to Philadelphia for a two week period.

School loses $300,000 for not desegregating

FERNDALE, Mich. (UPI)— The administration Wednesday ordered the cutoff of $300,000 in federal educational funds to this Detroit suburb because it maintains an all-black elementary school.

It was the first time federal funds to a northern school district had been withheld because of failure to desegregate under the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Three federal programs will be affected in the 8,000-student district and school officials labled the action harmful to education of all students.

"We have 12 schools and only one of them is segregated," Superintendent John J. Houghton said. "It's a neighborhood school like all the schools and our intermediate and high school are integrated."

The order to cut off the funds came from Elliot L. Richardson, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, and takes effect in 30 days.

A Word About

ED KATZ

Candidate for

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CHAIRMAN

Ed Katz is offering his services as Republican County Chairman to all Republicans. His qualifications are impressive.

He has been a registered Republican since 1939, attending City College of New York (CCNY) until entering the United States Army in 1941. He entered the Army as a Private and was discharged five years later as a 1st Lieutenant, having served in the European as well as the Asiatic Theatres.

His record is one of involvement as a Republican and as a productive member of the community. He has been active in the campaigns of Governors Scranton and Shafer, Senators Schweiker and Scott, Presidents Eisenhower and Nixon. He has aided in the campaigns of T. Newell Wood, Representative Russell Eshbach, Representative William Foster, as well as many, many County and Township candidates over the years. He has been a member of the Republican State Committee for five years, serving in numerous capacities on this state level. He served on the Republican Party Platform Committee in 1971 heading the subcommittee to draft the agriculture, transportation and conservation "planks" for the Platform Committee.

He has served not only his party but his community as well. He is the past-zone chairman and past-president of the Lions Club, past vice-chairman of the Y.M.C.A., Community Chest and March of Dimes. He is the past-president of B'nai Brith. He is a founding member of the local Moose Lodge, member of the Elks, Lions, Eagles and the Exchange Club.

His activities have proven him dedicated and loyal. His record is especially impressive when viewed in comparison to that of his opponent who has not really lived nor voted here except by absentee ballot until the 1970 general election.

If political activity is to have meaning, if it is to relate to problems that confront this County, we need a competent, knowledgeable man who has proven himself dedicated and loyal to serve the needs of our party and our community.

Elect Ed Katz Chairman of the Monroe County Republican Party

Pocono Mountain Kennel Club sponsors all-breed match show

West End Bureau

GILBERT — The Pocono Mountain Kennel Club will sponsor its first all breed match show and obedience trial, April 23 at the West End Fair Grounds. Judging will begin at 11 a.m.

The American Kennel Club-sanctioned show will feature a special puppy sweepstakes at 11:30 a.m. First prize will be 40 per cent of the total entry fees; second prize will be 20 per cent and third prize will be 10 per cent.

A junior showmanship event will also be held in addition to breed judging and obedience and sweepstakes categories.

According to Publicity Chairman Barbara DeSanto, a match show is one in which no championship points are awarded; it is a simulated point show.

However, entry requirements are the same as for the point show. A dog must be AKC registered and must conform to its breed standard. Puppies that are three months old may be shown at a match show, but in a point show, puppies must be six months old.

The junior showmanship competition is for handlers between the ages of eight and 16. In this event, the contestants are judged strictly on the way they handle their dogs.

All breeds in the show are divided into six variety groups: sporting, hound, working, terrier, toy, and non-sporting. Within an individual group, breeds are judged alphabetically at matches.

Within a breed there are normally five classes for males and for females. A best of breed puppy is chosen and a best of breed adult is chosen in each breed.

When the judging of all breeds is completed at a match, the groups are judged, one after another until all 12 are finished. At a match, puppies are judged in their own group; adults compete in their own adult group.

"Obedience trials demonstrate the usefulness of the purebred dogs as companions of man, not merely the dog's ability to follow specified routines in the obedience ring," said Mrs. DeSanto.

The performances of the dog and his handler in the ring must be accurate and correct and the dogs must demonstrate willingness and enjoyment in his work.

In the obedience trials, the dog must perform certain exercises, each one having a point value, with a maximum total score of all routines being 200 points. To qualify, the dog must receive scores of more than 50 per cent of the available points in each exercise and a final total score of 170 or more.

For the novice dog, there are six routines including heel on leash, stand for examination, heel off leash, recall, long sit and long down.

In the open class, the dog has seven exercises including heel free, drop on recall, retrieve on flat, retrieve over high jump, broad jump, long sit and long down.

The dog entered in utility trials is required to complete scent discrimination of two articles, a directed retrieve, a signal exercise, and a directed jumping and group examination.

Entries for the show will be taken from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Entry fees for puppies will be $1; the judging will take place at 11:30 a.m.

The junior showmanship competition will be judged at 11:00 a.m., obedience and sweepstakes will be judged at 11:30 a.m. and breed judging will take place at 12:15 p.m.

The breed and obedience entry fee will be $1.50 per class.

Judges for the show are Claire Andrews in Sporting Breeds and Groups, H. M. Cresap in Hound Breeds and Group, Mrs. Marilyn E. Deeter in Dobermans, German Shepherds, Great Danes, Shetland Sheepdogs and Puppy Group, and Carl A. Wood in Balance of Working Breeds and Adult Group.

Also, Robert C. Jacques in Terrier and Toy Breeds and Groups, Philip A. Lanard III in Non-Sporting Breeds and Group, and Kathleen V. Wisser, Dr. Arlend J. Faurl, Jr., William B. Reichard and Mrs. Joanne DiProperzio in Obedience.

Puppy sweepstakes will be judged by several of the above.

Admission to the April show is 50 cents. Pennsylvania Dutch food will be served by members of the Polk Township Volunteer Fire Company Auxiliary. In case of rain, the show will be inside.

Interested participants can contact Match Show Chairman Mrs. Ruthe B. Young, East Stroudsburg R.D. 2. They may also call publicity chairmen at (717) 421-1658 or (215) 681-4639.

Palmerton construction started

PALMERTON — Construction has started on additional telephone cables in the Kunkletown Exchange of the Palmerton Telephone Company. The cable will provide modern plant facilities for future subscribers as well as providing for private line services for present subscribers.

Approximately 2100 miles of wire is contained in the 20 miles of cable plant which is being put up as a part of this project. Construction, splicing and installation of additional central office equipment will be completed this summer.

This cable project parallels the cable expansion that was made in the Kresgeville Exchange area of the company last year. The company stated "This project is another step in our overall plans in keeping with our policy of providing the best possible telephone service".

Teenager arrested on drug charge

MILFORD — Pennsylvania State Police from the Milford barracks arrested a 15-year-old student at the Delaware Valley High School Monday and charged the youth with selling dangerous drugs.

The arrest followed a lengthy investigation and was made at the school in the presence of School Superintendent Dr. William Riker.

A state police spokesman said the juvenile allegedly sold dangerous drugs in Milford Borough on Feb. 24 in the presence of Trooper Michael B. Chaplin. A subsequent investigation resulted in the arrest.

The youth was released into the custody of his mother pending action by juvenile authorities.

Dangerous drugs are defined as drugs other than marijuana, heroin or cocaine.

Theresa Totani, Robin Beers, Diane Teel and Brenda Carvasi have been chosen new varisty cheerleaders to join returning squad members Joani DeRenzis, Lynn Humphreys, Debbie Frey, Patsy Petchel and Cindy Jo Young. Chris Nolf has been chosen as substitute.

Service groups organize West End road naming

West End Bureau

GILBERT — Hell's Kettle or Sal's Crotch may soon become official names for roads or locales in the rural West End. That is, of course, if enough residents vote for the names!

Because of the coordinated efforts of several West End service organizations, historical or scenic names like the above may soon be placed on all rural roads in Chestnuthill, Eldred, Hamilton, Polk and Ross Townships.

In conjunction with the Monroe County Planning and Zoning Commission, the West End groups are asking residents to submit suggested names, historical if possible, for roads in their townships.

According to road committee member Mrs. John Rinker of Effort, mimeographed forms to submit road names will be distributed to many West End businesses this month.

The form asks for the suggested road name, the legislative or township route number, the location by landmarks and the name of the nearest neighbor.

The committee would like the resident to include his name, address and phone number on the ballot, but indicates it is not necessary to sign one's name.

"We want to name these roads to help the ambulance service, the fire company, and the police," said Mrs. Rinker. "We are merely securing suggested names for the county. We want as many people as possible to participate."

Mrs. Rinker explained that initially the Progressive Woman's Club in the West End decided to undertake the project last summer as part of a community program.

Participating service clubs in the project now include the West End Ambulance Association, the Polk Township, Blue Ridge, and West End Fire Companies, the Western Pocono Jaycees and Lions Club, the West End Junior Woman's Club, the Mineola Grange and the Pennsylvania Patriotic Order of America.

After all the names for the roads have been submitted, a selected committee, composed of members of all the participating roups, will choose the final names, which will be submitted to the county planning and zoning commission.

According to Douglas Williams, director of the county body, the commission will then submit the names to the township supervisors, who are responsible for naming roads in their townships.

"I've had a feeling for the aesthetics and the history of this county," said Williams. "Anything relating to the history of the county will be of benefit overall."

Public places which will contain road naming ballots are: Keller's Store in Kresgeville, The Palmerton First National Bank in Gilbert, the Mountain View Dairy in Gilbert, Schoenberger's Store in Kunkletown, Pleasant Valley High School in Brodheadsville, the A&P Store in Brodheadsville and the offices of Dr. John Martucci and Dr. R.J. Arner in Brodheadsville.

Also, the Effort Diner in Effort, Altemose,s Store in Brodheadsville, Dennis' Store in Sciota, the Hamilton Elementary School in Sciota, Schick's Store in Saylorsburg, Koehler's Barbershop in Saylorsburg, Greensweig's Butcher Shop in Saylorsburg, Besecker's Diner in Snydersville, Weaver's Store in Snydersville and Douglas Reimer in Cherry Valley.

E.S. ordinance study sensible

We find it commendable that East Stroudsburg State College students have agreed to "arbitration" on the issue of what they claim is a discriminatory ordinance barring them from establishing student residences in all but a prescribed area of East Stroudsburg Borough.

We also think it is a good thing that the borough council has also agreed to such a course — forming a committee to study the problem and possible compromise moves to erase the aura of "discrimination" hanging around the 1969 ordinance.

It is a healthy approach to the problem, because it is out of issues like this that unhealthy town-and-gown confrontations can arise. It is of this stuff that demonstrations and their attendant threat of violence are made.

The reason for the ordinance is understandable. Students are young, and youth is exuberant. That exuberance will manifest itself in many ways often annoying to those not involved. No party sounds louder than the one next door, to which you have not been invited.

The premise though, still seems to be that students by their very nature are irresponsible and inclined to be inconsiderate of their neighbors. We find that a very short-sighted view of these young people. They are as desirous of good relations with the community in which they find themselves as that community is to preserve its peaceful characteristics.

In short, we feel the ordinance as presently constituted is not only discriminatory, but insulting as well. We hope the committee set up to study the offensive legislation will come to the same conclusion and propose alterations that will allow both a sense of justice and mutual understanding to prevail.

That the meeting Tuesday night, at which ESSC Student Senate president Robert Richey suggested the study committee, was held in a low key, with discussion several notches above the invective that too often invades such sessions, is a hopeful sign.

That, in itself, should be proof that the students at whom the zoning ordinance is aimed deserve better from the community that derives so much from their presence.

The threat of boycotts, one student leader said, was made just to show the options students have to fight such things as the disputed ordinance. If students should have to resort to that tactic, the good beginning made at Tuesday night's meeting will have been in vain, and East Stroudsburg will be a lot less peaceful than it desires, residence ordinance or not.

Develop programs

Well, the invitation has been sent, and it is now up to local law enforcement agencies to accept it.

The Governor's Justice Commission for the second time told Monroe County Commissioners that local initiative is necessary to get federal funds for law enforcement programs.

The problem is that there aren't any programs proposed right now. Each of the area's police departments certainly must have some problem or other they would like to see solved. It is up to them, apparently, to propose programs to deal with those programs and submit them to the commission for processing and funding.

Just in case the local law agencies aren't able to envision productive programs, the justice commission will hold a training session for members of the commission's northeast council to familiarize them with programs that may have potential in this area. Armed with that information, apparently, the council then can make some suggestions to local law enforcement agencies.

It all sounds good. It remains to be seen, however, how much good will come out of yet another seminar. What we would rather see is a gathering of local lawmen to discuss their specific problems and toss around ideas on possible solutions.

Such an approach becomes even more desirable when you consider the problem multiplication inevitable with the coming of age of the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area and the added tourists the park will bring. Now is the time for our local police agencies to start working on that particular problem, before the future becomes the present, and the problems too immense for any but a crisis approach.

The Pennsylvania Story

Race wide open

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The five Democratic presidential candidates on the Pennsylvania primary ballot April 25 — Republicans have no contest — have been asked by Columnist Mason Denison to serve as guest columnist to express in their own words why their particular candidacy should be supported).

HENRY M. JACKSON
Democratic Presidential Candidate

HARRISBURG — Round one of the Democratic primaries has made clear that the race for the Democratic nomination is wide open.

We are making a major effort in Ohio, Nebraska and in Oregon.

We have delegates filed in four districts in Massachusetts.

They are outstanding, highly respected in their communities, but, that effort is limited in scope.

After Oregon is California, New Mexico and New York.

But right now the thrust is Ohio, Nebraska and Oregon.

We're on the ballot in other states, but we are not taking any part in Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Tennessee and some of the other states.

No chance?

People say that Wallace can't be nominated or McGovern can't be nominated or someone else can't be nominated.

The truth is that any one of the Democratic candidates might be nominated at Miami in July. For this reason we must carefully consider the policies which each candidate thinks would serve the national interest.

A candidate's position on national security deserves the most careful scrutiny.

Let's talk about the safety of the nation under a McGovern administration..

Senator McGovern has proposed a $33 billion slash in the defense budget. It is time to stop and think about what this really means.

Senator McGovern has proposed that we reduce our aircraft carriers from 15 to 6. How then would he respond to a major crisis in the Mediterranean, or the Atlantic, or the Pacific? He calls for cancellation of the F-14 and F-15 fighter aircraft programs — the only planes we will have that will be able to match the Soviet MIG-23.

Senator McGovern wants to pull more than half our troops out of Europe, therefore jeopardizing the Atlantic Alliance and crippling the chance to negotiate the withdrawal of Soviet occupation forces from Central Europe. He chooses to wholly ignore the current Soviet naval and strategic build-up — the greatest peacetime military build-up by any nation.

Safety of America

Senator McGovern thinks he can head an administration, and guarantee the safety of America — with a navy without modern ships, and an air force without modern planes, and an obsolescent, undefended and outnumbered strategic force.

I am going to speak out against this simplistic thinking, however well-meaning and however decent the man who espouses it.

And I am going to ask how any responsible Democrat can tolerate this naive and dangerous view of national security and allow it to go unchallenged.

I had hoped that other candidates would speak out against this political flimflam but they have not. Some of them, in fact, show signs of moving towards Senator McGovern's extreme position.

For me, the safety of our people and the survival of our nation come first. I for one am going to speak out.

Don MacLean

Witless candidates

WASHINGTON — One of the problems of this campaign is that very few of the can*didates seem to have a sense of humor. Now* I'm not saying that they should all do stand-up routines like Bob Hope — after all, they're vying for the most important job in the world — but they don't have to be so deadly serious, either.

The voters will tolerate a bit of a joke from a Presidential candidate now and then. John Kennedy had a sparkling wit and was very popular with the press and the public. Yet this didn't prevent people from taking him seriously when he wanted them to. Lyndon Johnson could be funny occasionally, when he was telling down-home Texas stories. Even Barry Goldwater got off the occasional one-liner.

Before we go further with this, let me hasten to say, before some of you wise guys out there think of it, that I'm not talking about politicians saying funny things accidentally, when they are trying to be serious. If you don't like a candidate, you can find many of his ideas laughable and the man himself pretty ridiculous.

What I'm talking about is the bit of humor injected on purpose in a speech. Just about the only candidate who shows any real flair for that this year is George Wallace. Of course, if you really hate Wallace, I guess nothing he says can make you smile, but if you're going to be fair about it, he has good timing and a funny delivery.

Poke fun

And Wallace knows how to poke fun at his opponents. Whether you're for Wallace or not, his speech about busing, where he says, "Ol' Nixon there in the White House, he sees the support I have on this busing issue and he says, 'Hey, that Wallace is onto a good thing!'" is funny.

President Nixon himself often tells jokes and gets off a bon mot in private, but his public utterances and press conferences generally just make one thing clear — that he is a very serious, levelheaded man doing a very thoughtful job running this country and don't you forget it. Hubert Humphrey, who'll probably be his opponent, is not noted for his rapier wit.

However, in previous campaigns he's either been the underdog or else been busy explaining the previous administration's mistakes. Things like that can make you tense, so perhaps Humphrey has never really had a chance to relax and crack jokes. As for the others, George McGovern is about as sparkling as a pile of wet leaves and Edmund Muskie, he has trouble just keeping his temper in the face of adversity, let alone doing comedy.

Some say Muskie does have wit, but it's Maine humor, which must elude the understanding of the rest of us. It looks like a very dull year.

Someone who's not eligible to win a plaque, would he be considered implaquable?

Letters TO THE EDITOR

Replies to critical letters

Editor, The Record:

After reading the recent letters from "Dead" and "WWC" I feel compelled to reply to their complaints. First let me say that I was quite amused with the manner in which they signed their letters. My personal feeling is if one feels that his complaints are justified enough to be printed he should not be ashamed to identify himself.

WWC's particular gripe began with a desperation trip to the Emergency Room on a weekend when "doctors don't want to be bothered". I assume the doctors referred to are WWC's family physicians. Unfortunately we in the Emergency Room have no control over this particular matter. WWC, do you see clients at 4 a.m. Sunday? We do!

I am pleased that you are concerned with the Emergency Room of the General Hospital of Monroe County, but also ask if you have had any experience with other facilities. Are you aware that we are one of the few hospitals of this size that is staffed 24 hours a day, seven days a week by full time Emergency Room physicians? Our paramount concern is efficient and adequate treatment of patients. But, as an Emergency Room, our primary obligation is prompt attention to acute emergencies and secondary to general medical problems.

WWC alluded to the fact that the usual waiting period was unnecessary and the treatment deplorable. I am sure that when one is ill it is an emergency to him, but our duty is to assess the degree of emergency and attend first to the most critical patients. He neglected to state if his particular "emergency" was a two-day-old problem, which incidently will not be seen in many Emergency Rooms, or an illness of an acute nature. Because of this I am unable to comment on this particular complaint.

If one realizes that an average of 100 patients per day are seen in this facility, it is logical to note that some wait is to be expected. If we were fortunate enough to be able to make appointments for emergencies we could greatly alleviate this problem.

I consider it a personal attack to be accused of being indifferent and administering deplorable treatment. I would question WWC's reference for determining if treatment is deplorable.

If WWC is, indeed, a professional, he must be aware of the fact that all people are human and that one does not smile continually. Thus it is unfair to condemn an entire institution for lack of one "smile".

We, in this department, feel that we provide the best health care possible, but are the first to admit there is always room for improvement. One can certainly realize that it is impossible to correct any situation unless the specific incidents and individuals can be isolated. I strongly appeal to WWC, DEAD and any other concerned invidvidual who is displeased with any facet of our emergency department to contact me directly, so that we may continue to improve and fulfill our objective to serve this community in the best possible capacity.

DR. DAVID O. BOYER
General Hospital of Monroe County

Proud of hospital

Editor, The Record:

I would like to reply to "WWC" letter of April 13, as well as previous letter signed 'Dead', regarding their complaints relative to treatment received at the General Hospital of Monroe County.

It seems that these people do not believe that you receive in return what you give. Evidently they expected more than they were entitled to, or expected service beyond and above what the condition warranted.

Speaking from experience I can truthfully say that having been three times in the hospital in the past five years and my wife twice, we had the best of treatment available. At no time did we receive only the best treatment.

Recently I spent three weeks at the hospital (surgery) and at no time did I receive anything but the best of service. I have the highest regard for the doctors, nurses and the most menial worker.

Monroe County should be very proud of this hospital catering to the population for miles around. Therefore let's not condemn the entire organization because of one or two thoughtless persons. The whole boils down to the old saying "Do unto others as you would like them do unto you."

By the way, I am not ashamed to sign my name as the other two correspondents did by "Dead and WWC."

Wrestlers wants Sheldon Morgan

Editor, The Record:

I am writing to make public the opposition of Stroudsburg High School wrestlers to the recent submission of Sheldon Morgan's "resignation."

Morgan is not in any manner "walking out" on Stroudsburg's wrestlers. He was presented with two alternatives. He could either submit a resignation, or be relieved from his coaching duties, which could be pernicious to his future career, when his reasons for dismissal would be augmented by the officials involved.

Morgan is a young, but dedicated coach, with the wrestlers placed first on his list of importance, not overall records or publicity, which seems to be at present overrunning our administration.

Being a coach with this attitude of the athlete being first, record second, he did what he thought was right for the wrestlers, and what they would benefit by. He was a man the administration could not coerce.

It is an undisputed fact that when a coach does not have the material to work with, he can not use it. This season many wrestlers with potential and ability were eliminated by sickness or injury. This did not stop Morgan. He pushed onward, winning the Wallenpaupak Invitational Wrestling Tournament, and placing three in the intra-league sectionals.

In a few of Stroudsburg High School's officials would only sit down with the wrestlers, and listen to what they have to say — for they are the group directly affected — the situation would be much altered.

The Stroudsburg High School wrestlers want Sheldon Morgan as their head coach next year. The wrestling program, which according to our athletic director is not at its utmost point of accomplishments, will next year be much worse when a replacement "attempts" to coach a group of "once silenced" uncooperative wrestlers.

Disappointed in editorial

Editor, The Record:

Your editorial on April 11, 1972 on aid to non-public schools came as a shock and disappointment to those who are committed to Catholic education. While admittedly sympathetic in tone, the editorial refuses to see the issue our way and supports those who object to state aid on constitutional grounds. Clearly, you have taken a position against us, even though you seem to apologize for your position.

Further, your recommendation that we close our schools, be absorbed into the public school system and return to the "Sunday school approach" is a shallow solution to a deep, extremely complex and far-reaching educational-constitutional problem. Your recommendation is particularly offensive in the light of the remarks of our President, legislators, educators and many open minded people who have underscored the value of diversity in education and the unique contribution made to our American society by our parochial schools. Obviously, you are missing what many people are observing.

The United States Commissioner of Education, Mr. Sidney Marland, in a speech delivered last week at the National Catholic Educational Convention in Philadelphia, extolled the value of the Catholic school, expressed deep concern over our financial plight and assured Catholic educators of his conviction that their efforts were worthwhile. He said, "The effort is very much worthwhile and the loss of it would be a serious one for the American people, whatever their religious belief or lack of it, both for our democratic process and for the broad purposes of learning, understanding, and judgment."

Commissioner Marland continued, "The effort you are making is worthwhile because through 11,000 schools and through the hearts and minds of 4.5 million young people, United States Catholic Education exerts a strongly beneficial effect in two areas — the spiritual and intellectual development of a great many human beings and the improvement of a great many human communities. And these effects define the purposes of education, all of education, as well as anything I know."

Commissioner Marland concluded his speech with an appeal that is quite relevant in view of your recommendation that we give up our search for help. He said, "The involvement of the Federal Government with non-public education seems a matter of infinite complexity, but I ask that we both resist the impulse to lay the matter down with a sigh or to turn from it in despair. Strengthening and increasing the relationship is a deeply serious matter for all of us and for all our children, and in the function and responsibility of my office, I am treating it, I assure you with high seriousness and continuing commitment to the search."

Your suggestion that we give up the search, that we close our schools and lie down and die, is a poor contribution to a dramatic dialogue that is currently absorbing knowledgeable and serious minded people.

In view of the efforts of our President, our Governor, our legislators, and our educators and especially in view of the speech of Commissioner Marland, I respectfully ask you to reconsider your assessment of the futility of circumventing the constitutional problem. Remember, Chief Justice Burger's opinion in 1971 clearly indicated that neutral, non-ideological aid to the students and aid to parents were not forbidden. They are quite constitutional.

I sincerely regret your prompt readiness "to preside over the liquidation of our empire." "We have not yet begun to fight."

HHPC sets up corporation to oversee health system

AVOCA — The Health and Hospital Planning Council of Northeastern Pennsylvania has begun the process of establishing a new corporation to oversee its contract for the development of an Experimental Health Delivery System.

The project, which is funded by the Federal government, and which will improve the delivery of health services for the Northeastern Pennsylvania area, is in the process of developing a membership pool as a first step in the formation of a new non-profit corporation.

The body of the corporation will be composed of health care providers, third party payors, such as insurance companies and charitable funds, and government officials from the eight counties of — Pike, Sullivan, Wayne, Wyoming, Carbon, Monroe, Lackawanna and Luzerne. It will have as its task the implementation and management of programs to improve the delivery of regional health care.

The Experimental Health Services Delivery System project is one of twelve throughout the United States which was funded by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. HEW officials feel the project could become an important mechanism for the decentralization of decision-making for health programming from the Federal to the regional level.

The project will work closely with the Health and Hospital Planning Council and the Regional Medical Program in developing a network of care which will reach all residents of the eight-county area.

The Health and Hospital Planning Council began work on the contract through an Advisory Committee established in June, 1971.

Search and By-Laws Committees, elected from the Advisory Committee, are writing by-laws and articles of incorporation and searching organizations concerned with health care for those with a major interest and desire to work toward the development of this corporation.

Thomas P. Shelburne, Chairman of the Search Committee, said that he is hopeful that the experimental program will bring together the eight-county community in a new effort to begin to test and develop effective ways in which residents will realize equal access to health care at reasonable costs.

Members of the Search and By-Laws Committees are: Thomas P. Shelburne, chairman, Search Committee, WNEP TV; Dr. Leonard Wolf, chairman, By-Laws Committee, University of Scranton; William E. White, Regional Medical Program; Harry Lowd III, Tyler Hospital; Lou D. Coccodrilli, Luzerne County Rural Health Corporation; Robert J. Hammel, Department of Public Welfare, Northeast Region; Ben Badman, Jr., Wyoming Valley Hospital; Dr. Edward Notari, Health and Hospital Planning Council; Martin J. Snyder, Lackawanna County Bureau of Childrens' Services; Willard Hallock, Federation of Neighborhood Councils; Dr. H. D. Propst, Medical Society of Wayne County.

Horse owners told vaccination time now

STROUDSBURG — Spring is the recommended time to administer yearly vaccinations to horses, reminds County Agent John Withrow.

There are several infectious diseases of horses for which vaccines are available; however, it is rarely advisable to vaccinate the pleasure horse for all of them.

Tetanus (lockjaw) is one disease for which all horses, regardless of value, should be vaccinated. Tetanus is a neurotoxic disease caused by the toxin or poison produced by a bacterium, Clostridium tetani.

Horses are extremely susceptible to tetanus, and it is commonly associated with puncture wounds of their feet.

The disease is almost impossible to cure but is easily prevented by vaccination. Foals and non-vaccinated horses should receive 2 tetanus toxoid injections the first year then an annual booster thereafter, says Withrow.

Other vaccinations of consideration are for the encephalitides or sleeping sicknesses. The general recommendation for Pennsylvania horses is for horses located in the eastern third of the Commonwealth or horses west of there that will travel into encephalitis endemic areas to be vaccinated for Eastern Equine Encephalitis (EEE). EEE is not endemic in Pennsylvania but it does occur yearly in New Jersey.

Last year Venezuelan Equine Encephalitis (VEE) swept this country. A commercial vaccine for VEE is available but officials are not in full agreement about suggesting that all horses be vaccinated for it.

The present recommendations for Pennsylvania is to vaccinate those horses which will be going into states that require it. For example, many shows and race tracks in New York State require proof of VEE vaccination at least two weeks before entry, says Withrow.

All equine vaccinations should be administered by a licensed veterinarian. He is the best qualified person to recommend specific vaccination for your horse.

Mooring permits available

HARRISBURG — Boaters are advised that Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources Watercraft Launching and Mooring Permits are now available at all State Park offices where boating areas are provided.

Watercraft Mooring Permits are issued for specific numbered mooring spaces within each Park, and are not transferable from one Park to another, except for daily launching only. Only 55 Mooring Permits will be issued for each of Tobyhanna and Gouldsboro State Parks. Mooring permits are sold for $5. each.

Watercraft Launching Permits, which are not valid for overnight mooring, are issued to boaters who intend to remove their watercraft from the Park after each outing. Launching Permits are valid on any Department water where boating is permitted. Launching Permits are not required for any watercraft displaying a current Pennsylvania Fish Commission Mooring Permit, or a current motor boat registration from any State. Launching Permits are sold for $2.00 each.

Permits may be obtained at the Tobyhanna State Park Office Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Jack O'Brian's

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Barbara Walters shopped Peking for Henry Kissinger and found three carved jade jewels. Henry gave one to Charlotte Ford; which of Henry Kiss-Kiss' galpals got the other two? . . . "Sugar" was the toughest ticket in town Sat. night; even David Merrick, who knows how to hang onto his ducats, couldn't raise any.

Roseland owner Lou Brecker, at his goodbye dinner at "21" before jetting to Europe, reminisced about his ownership of the old International Casino on Times Square, most beautiful and well-designed cabaret in N.Y. history — complete in every possible detail until the 75-person floor show arrived two days before the premiere after weeks of rehearsals elsewhere — to discover the architect had forgotten to build even one dressing room for the performers; it was Depression, and the adjoining building was empty, so he just rented it, chopped passageways through to the International, and solved the lunacy. . . . Lou also remembered another ultimate Bdwy. idiocy: the great cinema mosque, the Capitol Theater on Bdwy., was finished and ready for opening — until someone remembered they'd designed it without including a film projection booth.

Lass named Swoosie Kurtz is in her third year with "Man-in-the-Moon-Marigolds," and an aide informs us her real given name indeed is Swoosie: her dad, Frank Kurtz, piloted the odd plane (pasted together of spare parts, half swan, half goose, ergo: Swoose) which force-landed in the Australian bush and saved the lives of many prominent passengers including then-Rep. Lyndon Baines Johnson. The columns before her expected arrival said Col. & Mrs. Kurtz were expecting "another Swoose," and reporters tagged her from birth with that name; even was put on her birth certificate by a column-inspired nurse. So her folks decided just to leave it that way. Her dad was the most decorated WW II pilot.

Our friend James DePriest conducted the Philadelphia Orchestra at the Philly Academy of Music for the first time and won the most brilliant reviews we've encountered in that symphony-hip city. It's a quadruple triumph for Jim: not only the total acceptance as a conductor of a major orchestra but his accomplishment dramatically was emphasized in two silently obvious facts: Jim walked out with difficulty because of long ago polio; wears braces. . . He also is Philadelphia-born — and it is not irrelevant that James DePriest also is black.

Among the admiring audience at his Philadelphia triumph were his wife, his mother, and his aunt, known long and enthusiastically in the music world as Marian An*derson. . . Jim did not choose* an easy symphonic out, no comfortable old classical chestnuts — and was praised without reservation by the critics for his musical courage and complete success. . . He recently was appointed associate conductor of the prestigious National Symphony in Washington, D.C., so his podium runneth over.

The Sydney, Australia, women's lib newsletter calls itself "Mejane," after Tarzan's bird. . . Law & Order: Sammy Davis Jr. tossed a post-Oscar bash at his H'wood manse. Celebs were guarded at the Davis gate by a man with a rifle.

TV newscaster Tom Dunn commutes weekends to his new investment in Manchester, Vt., the Snowy Owl, a country inn. . . Cooky's Steak Pub booked a peculiarly New Yorky bash this week: a divorce party. The ex-mates both were there — to introduce their intendeds to their pals.

Another social comment, retractive: L'Aiglon Restaurant is 53 years old. When it opened, men's wristwatches were considered indecent, proper for none more muscular than dangling wrists.

The Manhattan apartment house, whose owners refused to let Pat Kennedy Lawford buy a flat because she's a showbiz-Democrat type, might have a tough time excluding TV princess Mary Tyler Moore: whose great-great-great-great uncle, John Moore, fought in the Revolutionary War; MTM has an immaculate DAR background, even made her high society debut when she was 17.

Jane Connell of "The Real Inspector Hound" cast had to learn to play "Minuet in G" on the tuba yet, for her role in the Tom Stoppard mystery piece opening this month. . . Sean Connery swears "Diamonds Are Forever" was his final James Bond movie; that's what he said before he made a string of celluloid shrugs; he'll be back.

If you're one of those strangles who worries where Mick Jagger might be at any given moment, be apprised the drug-cultured rocker is on Boro Bora in the Pacific with wife, Bianca, and daughter. The islanders don't even look around when they nude-swim en famille; it's an old Polynesian custom.

Desi Arnaz Sr. plans a TV series (he'll star and direct), so Desi Jr. asked if a part is there for him. "Can't afford you," Senior shrugged. . . With "Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" installed on Bdwy. as its happiest new hit, author Burt Shevelove the also updated "No, No, Nanette") notes prosperously it's played all over the world. And he's owed royalties from Bulgaria and Mongolia. Now that is success!

ASC head attends conference

CARLISLE — William Baumgartner, Chairman of Monroe County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee (ASC), LaDora M. Bolcar, county executive director, and Dorothy M. Albert program assistant attended a Statewide con*ference at Carlisle, Pen*nsylvania, recently.

A highlight of the conference was the presentation of County Committeemen Emeritus Awards to four retired county ASC committeemen, each with 35 years of service with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS). Recepients were Thomas S. Gordner, Millville; Samuel M. Schaeffer, Bernville; Osmond Kerr, Sommerville, and Andrew Bolish, Weatherly.

Speakers at the conference included John Oswald, president of Penn State University. He told committeemen that Penn State will continue to help rural and farm people to meet the economic and social changes occurring so rapidly in Pennsylvania.

Seeley Lodwick, executive assistant to Kenneth Frick, administrator of ASCS in Washington, D.C. discussed the goals of the Agriculture Act of 1970. He explained the importance of balancing supplies of farm commodities to available markets. He also pointed out the necessity of maintaining a high volume of farm exports.

Presently American farmers are exporting 50 per cent of their soybeans; about 50 per cent of the wheat, and 20 per cent of the feed grain.

Thomas King, associate dean, School of Agriculture at Penn State, discussed the role of the Agricultural Cooperative Extension Service in meeting the educational needs of farmers and farm communities. He pointed out many consumer needs which are also being serviced by the Agricultural Extension Service.

John M. Phillips, Director of twelve Northeastern States for ASCS, summarized the conference and thanked all county ASCS personnel for a fine job completed in informing farmers of the 1972 set-aside crop adjustment programs.

Teen Forum

If a man answers . . .

By Jean Adams

CALLER: (Q.) What do you say to a guy that calls up and says, "I want your body?" This happened to me the other day. It was the first time something like that had ever happened to me. I told my fiance and he said not to worry.

I have an idea it might be a guy I used to go with when I was 11 or 12. We had a few dates. He called me recently and asked me to marry him. I told him no because I didn't love him. I also refused to go out with him. I am 18 now and interested in only one boy.

I don't know what to do.

Shocked in Washington, D.C.

(A.) Your fiance's advice was good. The best thing to do is nothing. If it happens again, hang up the instant you recognize the voice.

FOSTER HOME: (Q.) I am 14 and recently moved into a foster home. My foster parents have a daughter of their own, Pam. She is 14 too. Since I came, boys have started coming around. She likes them, and so do I.

Her mother is annoyed. She says, "Boys never came around here before and they are not going to start now." Sometimes I get the feeling her mother hates me for changing her little girl.

How do I tell a foster parent that boys are a part of all girls' lives?

"New Girl" in North Carolina

(A.) The boys apparently are interested in Pam as well as you. Even if you were not there, they would probably come around.

Talk to Pam bout this, and suggest that both you and she talk to her mother and your foster mother. I believe that you will find that she is just trying to "protect" both of you. If so, you can suggest rules for boys' visits — certain days, certain hours, supervision, chaperoning, etc.

All homes with teen-age daughters in them should have such rules. Such homes need boy visitors, but the boys need to know that there are limits to the visiting privilege.

Spring's natural freshness can go right to your head

BY ANDREA B. STERN
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — It's beginning to look as though this winter's unseasonably warm climate is to be followed by some super mild spring days. All of which makes one think of daffodils and rosemary, lavender and luxuriating in the heathful freshness that lies ahead.

So why not let all go to your head and bring out your hair's natural beauty and shine with some special shampoos you can concoct yourself out of easy to find ingredients from your garden and grocery.

Hair will grow and thrive on specialized attentions paid it and it makes good beauty sense to use just the right shampoo for hair that is oily or dry, limp or radiantly thick.

And what could be simpler than an egg for a start? If your hair is baby fine, difficult to manage and has a tendency to droop at the first sign of climbing humidity, then a pure egg yolk shampoo can do wonders, creating life where before there were simply straight dangling locks and wispy strands.

For this cleansing mixture, beat one egg yolk into one-half pint of warm, not hot, water. Double the amounts for extra thick hair. Massage the liquid throughout the scalp, concentrating on the hair itself. Egg yolk is cleansing, so don't worry about the absence of suds. Your hair will be getting much needed natural protein instead — important since the hair, as the skin, is made up predominatly of protein.

The easy to obtain egg. . .nature's best shampoo

Repeat action

Repeat this massaging action until you are sure the hair has absorbed every bit of protein it can and then rinse under a steady stream of warm water, not in a basin. Give an extra rinse for good measure and then towel dry your hair or set it when it is three-quarters dry.

Your hair won't squeak, but then who needs squeaking hair, dried to a wisp of straw. Most shampoos on the market, which promote this squeaking fallacy, have a detergent action which is misleadingly promoted as the road to healthy hair. Soft and supple hair should be the goal, clean but retaining enough natural oil not to squeak.

A variation on this is simply to add a whole beaten egg to your favorite herbal or pure castile shampoo. Add the egg to the amount of shampoo you will use one time because eggs are a perishable item.

For dry hair, another possibility is the addition of two teaspoons of vegetable or nut oil to your favorite shampoo. Add one or two tablespoons of cider vinegar to the last rinse water.

Lavender shampoo is a reminder of a more gracious era, and thus, takes a bit more time to prepare. However, you can make a bottle at a time and store it for future use.

Pour one quart of water into a pot, sprinkle in eight ounces of rosemary leaves and simmer for 15 minutes. Strain off the leaves and return the liquid to the pot, add ⅛ ounce of castile soap and dissolve over the heat. Remove from the heat and, while the contents are still warm, beat in ½ ounce of lavender oil and bottle.

Herbal rinses

Herbal rinses are easy to make and as luxurious and sweet-scented as your nearby garden. Rosemary as a rinse has been a favorite since the time of the first Queen Elizabeth.

Preparing this rinse is simply a matter of pouring a cup of boiling water over a handful of the herb and allowing it to steep. Use this for your last rinse water. Any number of herbs can be used in its place. Chose the herb to fit your favorite scent and experiment according to your mood.

Quickie dry shampoos can be made from any number of ingredients, beginning with that inexpensive old faithful—the egg.

Beat the whites of an egg into a stiff and mountainous pile, saving the yolks for a future shampoo. One egg will do the job for a boyish cut, two for thin hair, three for medium textured and four for extra thick locks.

First brush the hair to rid it of dust and loose dandruff. With clean hands, dip into the bowl of beaten egg whites and begin massaging the foam into the roots of the hair, possibly working on one section at a time and covering the hair as well as the root.

After the entire mixture has been used, give the head a general overall stimulating scrub and find a cozy spot to relax while it dries. It must be completely dry to be effective, so a hair dryer can speed up the wait to 15 or 20 minutes. Using a clean, dry brush, remove every particle of the whites.

Cornmeal, bran, oatmeal or almond meal will also do the trick for a dry shampoo without the wait, but will require a bit more brushing.

Shampooing can and should be an invigorating experience for both you and your hair. So why not treat yourself to some good old natural luxury?

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

ATHENS, Greece — There are many times when I should have liked to celebrate a holiday all over again, but celebrating the usual Easter in Stroudsburg and the Greek Orthodox Easter in Athens are two quite different affairs.

Oh, they have Easter eggs galore — including red ones baked right in the middle of their loaves of bread and other pastry we saw in the shops in the Plaka — the old section of Athens going back to before the Turkish occupation 400 years ago — which leads through narrow streets and stair-step byways right up to the base of the Acropolis.

We had seen the Acropolis from a distance from the roof garden of our hotel on Constitution Square and did the traditional tour of the Archaeological Museum, the stadium built of pure marble for the nineteenth century revival of the ancient Olympics, the Orthodox Cathedral and our own walking tour of the Plaka.

We returned to a taberna in the Plaka that night as part of a night tour of Athens, which included a stop at the Piraeus Yacht Club where the Onassis' moor their yacht and we had ouzo — a licorice-flavored drink which turns white when you add water — which you had better.

The tour ended with a late dinner at the Athens equivalent of a night club where they danced the traditional folk dances — da-do da-dah, da da dah, do da dah, da da da dee!! — and ate sausage wrapped in vine leaves and beef en brochette and more red hard boiled eggs.

We emerged at midnight with the da, da-da-dah! still ringing in our ears right into the solemn chanting of the midnight mass at the cathedral being held in the square a half block away.

We also became a part of the candle-bearing crowd of worshipers ringing the square with television cameras and loud speakers focused on the governmental, military and religious leaders in the center.

Our guide tried to shepherd us through on tiptoe to our bus but we had to turn and tiptoe back and finally walk back to our hotel with the honor guard of soldiers and sailors lining the whole route.

In front of our hotel, we watched outside while the weary guard would snap to attention when an official car with its dignitaries flashed past, lighted by the candles they were still holding.

The American couple next to us said, "Oh, there go the Agnews," but it was so quick we couldn't be sure. What we are sure of is that Greece seems to be the "in" place for traveling Americans this year — and for candle-bearing Greeks.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Bobby is obviously having a blast — either totally absorbed in admiration of those handsome Grecian males or in too much ouza with too little water! We received this column air mail from Athens, but it took a bit of careful untangling. She had turned her carbon paper the wrong way and the entire column was written backwards!!!)

Open classroom wide of mark?

By JUDITH GELBER

The "open school," or classroom-without-walls idea, is one of the newer concepts in education. Many educators consider it an improvement over the traditional arrangement of long central corridors with box-like rooms opening from them on either side. But the idea does not appeal to everyone.

The floor plan of "open-area" schools includes "large, wall-less learning areas occupied by all the children. Their libraries are centrally placed...their furniture is movable. They encourage relaxed routines and team teaching."

This description comes from an article dealing with the "schools without walls" experiment in the Canadian province of Ontario. The writer, an education reporter for a Toronto newspaper, goes on to say:

"Advocates of the open-area arrangement argue that these schools offer a better learning environment for the following reasons: because there is less structured activity, children can learn at their own pace in directions best suited to them; there is more sharing among the children, who have more opportunities to learn from each other; freer to pursue their own interests, the pupils are more inclined, under teacher supervision, to develop independence and initiative."

Critics of this plan, however, claim that "without the old classroom structure, there is too much noise and confusion, which is detrimental to the learning process; some children need a certain amount of privacy, and open areas do not provide it; the free environment leads to relaxation of discipline; too much time is devoted to 'fun' activities, with the result that the children do not learn enough about the basics of reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic."

These open-area schools are, for the most part, limited to the elementary grades. So much criticism has been leveled against the elementary schools for destroying the young child's "natural" desire to learn through too much regimentation at too early an age that educators are trying to transfer some of the joy of childhood to the educational experience.

But, appealing as the goals of open-area schools may be, I can't help feeling that two important ideas have been overlooked: first, there must come a time when the unregimented pleasure of childhood must give way to a disciplined approach to learning. Knowledge is not acquired if a child can avoid a subject because it requires too much effort on his part, or because it isn't "fun" to learn.

Second, unless there is an overwhelming reason for going to school, beyond learning to read, write and figure, the most exciting teaching methods, and the most advanced schoolhouse design will, in the end, mean little.

In the final analysis, educational methods and architecture will follow logically if society first establishes direction for the schools. Our educational goals were established many years ago when our main purpose was to create a literate and loyal public. Time and events, however, have moved on, creating a need for broader educational horizons. And this is a task that should not be left solely to government or the educational structure.

Earth Fairs: Just fun or long-term effect?

By GAIL NEVINS

STROUDSBURG — If you want to boo the gypsy moth, cheer on a honey bee, taste some freshly baked bread, plan this summer's garden, observe how you create pollution, see how your great grandfather conserved from necessity, and get all the eco info you can carry, on a dozen different topics — then get over to the Monroe County Earth Fair on Saturday. You'll be glad you saw the whole thing!

You're also invited to hear Friday night's speaker, R. Emmet Doherty, at 8 p.m., talking on the causes, effects and control of 200 years of American society. Both events will be at the Stroud Township Municipal Building on N. Fifth St. Saturday's exhibits will open at 10 a.m. and continue through 4 p.m. It's all free and open to the public.

All of which brings to mind a few thoughts. Earth Fairs — they've been done for the past few years around the country — are a lot of fun to visit and see and even participate in. After all, you can get all of those samples and collect enough reading material to fill up an evening. And they do bring diverse groups together.

But a lingering question is, will it have any long term effect? Will the visitor amble through for a day's free fun or will some of what it's all about stick and make a few changes in habit here and there?

This Saturday will be the third national Earth Day. Which is something with a little hope attached to it. Because if the momentum is still going and hasn't diminished along the way, then it appears that increasingly more minds are giving a little more thought to the concepts involved and, even more importantly, translating them into action.

True, overtly government and industry have the biggest clout with their respective powers of enforcement, size and impact. But government and industry are created and run by people and it is the individual people who bring their ideas to whatever it is they're doing.

Oceanographer Jacques Cousteau emphasized last year during his visit to Philadelphia that the environmental movement came from the people, especially in the United States, and because of this grass roots pressure, government and industry are being forced to comply.

The change is gradual, but there is change. Because it's a fact of life that a politician doesn't get reelected if he doesn't represent the people and a company's sales dip if the consumer doesn't buy (view the current pesticide slump).

The people who started the first Earth Day tried for a little consciousness raising and it metamorphosed into action. They recognized the important fact that the individual is not powerless.

The point of the whole thing is that each of us has some clout. Whether it's changing our own attitude on how wasteful we are individually or actively applying pressure to legislators and businesses. And we shouldn't hesitate to exercise it. So if you agree with some of what you see and learn at the local Earth Fair, then do something about it the other 364 days of the year.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	1 NT
Pass	Pass	2 ♠

Opening lead—king of clubs.

Let's say you're in two spades and West leads the king of clubs. In view of the bidding, it seems likely that West has the K-J-x of trumps and that you must lose two spades, two hearts and two clubs to go down one. But if you consider the matter thoroughly, a ray of light emerges and it becomes possible to make the contract.

You win the club with the ace and play the A-K and another diamond, ruffing the third one and finding the suit divided 3-3.

Now you lead the queen of spades—which is a very unusual play, since you have neither the jack nor the ten to back up your queen. However, there is a good reason for the play, since you are convinced that West has the king and devoutly hope that East started with the singleton or doubleton jack or ten—in which case your scheme will succeed.

West covers the queen with the king, which you win with the ace, and now you lead the nine of diamonds, discarding a club regardless of whether or not East ruffs.

If he ruffs with the ten you wind up making the hand because the only tricks you lose after this are a trump, two hearts and a club.

The outcome is the same if East does not ruff the nine of diamonds. In that case, West ruffs and sooner or later leads a club—which you ruff.

You return a trump, bumping the jack and ten together, and your only losers prove to be two trumps, two hearts and a club.

Making two spades may not seem a really big deal, but still it entitles you to feel you've earned your keep by causing one of your losers to disappear.

Nixon woos Spanish-American voters

By JOHN PIERSON
Dow Jones — Ottaway News

WASHINGTON — Viva Nixon!

It sounds unlikely now, but come November, if the President has his way, a lot of Mexican-Americans will be shouting that — and putting their vote where their viva is.

Most Chicanos are Democrats. In 1968, they gave the Nixon-Agnew ticket only 10 per cent of their votes. But Nixon aims to enlarge that share, and to do it, he's plying them with the politician's traditional lures — jobs and money.

Republicans also are encouraging a radical Mexican-American party in Texas, La Raza Unida, in the hope it will siphon off votes from the Democrats in that key state.

The stakes are big. A switch of only six per cent of the Mexican-American vote could affect the elections in California, Texas, Illinois and New Mexico, according to a recent study. These four states have 101 electoral votes out of 270 needed to elect a president.

"The Mexican-Americans are a very critical vote," says White House counselor Robert Finch, who has been helping marshal the president's "Chicano strategy."

Whether Nixon can succeed in cutting into the "brown vote" this fall is far from certain. Sen. Joseph Montoya, a New Mexico Democrat and the senate's only Chicano, doubts it. "The Nixon Administration has totally failed to mount an assault on the massive problems confronting our Spanish-speaking Americans," he says. "The Mexican-American voters will stay overwhelmingly within the framework of the Democratic Party."

But Philip Sanchez, director of Nixon's Office of Economic Opportunity and the Administration's highest-ranking Chicano, is optimistic. "I definitely do get the feeling that something is happening in the thought patterns of the Mexican-Americans," he says. "They're tired of being taken for granted by the Democrats."

GOP strategists are making much of the "taken-for-granted" argument. "They (the Democrats) have had us in their hip pocket and done nothing for us," says Ben Fernandez, a Los Angeles consulting economist who's heading a committee that hopes to raise $1 million for Nixon's reelection among the nation's Spanish-speaking people.

"If the Democrats win 90 per cent of our vote again, they won't need to make love to us, and Republicans will stop trying," adds Alex Armendariz of the Committee for the Reelection of the President."

"If a shift occurs, the Democrats will have to make more love, and the Republicans will try harder."

The Republicans aren't greedy. They neither expect nor need to win nine out of 10 Chicanos.

Nixon lost Texas to Hubert Humphrey by 39,000 votes in 1968. If he had picked up only six per cent more of the Chicano vote, he would have carried the state, according to a study by the League of United Latin-American Citizens and the Mexican-American Bar Association.

California, which Nixon won by 35,000 votes in 1960, would have gone Democratic if John Kennedy had won another 5 per cent of the Chicano vote. Both states are top priority for the GOP's Chicano strategists this year.

Nixon is staking a lot of his appointments to high-level federal jobs. So far he has named 28 Spanish-surnamed persons to positions earning $30,000 and up a year.

24th annual show closes today

Hotel show draws big crowd

By SKIP TAGGART
Pocono Record Reporter

MOUNT POCONO — The 24th Annual Pocono Mountains Hotel and Restaurant Show at Mount Airy Lodge in Mount Pocono opened Wednesday with exhibitors and visitors alike gorging themselves with free goodies and sample culinary delights as they broused around the lodge's huge convention center.

With everything from French fried chicken fingers to an exotic potion of coconut-pineapple punch, the convention goers strolled from exhibit to exhibit passing greasy-lipped grins at the hawkers as their hands reached out on preliminary paths to their mouths.

While waiting for their stomachs to make the transition from seafood to poultry, beef, or whatever they had their eyes on next, other wares less taxing on the digestive system were also available for view and demonstration.

A psychadelic rug that comes to life under a blacklight was displayed, offering the utmost excursion to the brain while looking at your feet under the bombardment of ultra-violet rays.

A representative for the rug firm said, "We haven't sold too many of these to commercial establishments but we get quite a few orders from kids."

Pool cleaner

A few booths away was found an underwater robot swimming pool vacuum cleaner wandering aimlessly along the bottom of an oversized plastic bath tub.

"A totally new hands-off way to vacuum your pool . . . never forgets where it hasn't been" exclaims the brochure.

A man with a long stick, looking suspiciously like the keeper-of-the-snakes, poked and prodded the little devil around the bath tub. Each time he nudged the sensor bar the vacuum would back up and creep off in another direction.

"Hi there," he said. "A fascinating little thing, isn't it?"

Who could help but agree. But somehow an electrically operated vacuum in a swimming pool didn't seem like the greatest idea in the world. He said it was very safe, though.

"Do you have a pool?" he inquired. Nope. "Oh," he replied. "I thought everybody up here had a swimming pool."

No hotel and restaurant trade show would be complete with out representatives from the distilled spirit industries and almost a complete isle of booths were dedicated to the display of everything ever needed by anyone to make a cocktail. There were, however, no free samples here.

Spirited refreshments were being sold at each end of the convention-sports complex for those who chose to imbibe.

One of the more pedestrian displays at the trade show was an honest-to-goodness, real life Indianapolis type race car.

Contradiction

Parked and roped off in a corner of the building dedicated to the promotion of the upcoming Shafer 500 at Pocono, the clean-lined little red, white and blue racer capable of 200 miles per hour contradicted itself by sitting idly among all the human hubbub.

A youthful delegate to the convention, about 10 years old, examined the $50,000 car and asked if they were giving away free models of it somewhere in the building.

"Someday I'm going to drive a dragster like that," he vowed and walked off to get something to eat.

The trade show, which will continue until 9 p.m. today, is being sponsored by the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau and total attendance is expected to approach 15,000 persons over the two-day exhibition period.

When asked how much food they expected to go through, one of the larger food company exhibitors said, "More than I care to think about, but if we pick up some new accounts, it's worth it. Besides, it only comes once a year."

There was only one exhibit that appeared to be missing — the one where they give away the bicarbonate of soda.

Russel Irwin, of Pocono Mountain Daries, Brodheadsville, passes out a sample of one of the company's products at the Hotel and Restaurant Trade Show at Mount Airy Lodge in Mount Pocono Wednesday.

N.J. resident found guilty of larceny in county court

STROUDSBURG — A Monroe County Jury found Richard Whippert, of Somerville, N.J., guilty of larceny by bailee Wednesday after deliberating for half an hour.

The charge was brought against Whippert by Ralph Thomas, operator of a Budget Rent-A-Car agency in East Stroudsburg, who said Whippert kept a rented car beyond the limits of legality.

Thomas rented Whipper a 1970 sedan on Oct. 7, 1970 for a deposit of $35 and extended the rental the next day for a $10 deposit. A third extension was attempted over the phone, but phone extensions are against Thomas' policy.

Thomas tried to contact Whippert, but was told the defendant was out of town. He filed a complaint against Whippert.

The defendant was subsequently arrested when the rented car was involved in an accident near Eagle Valley Corners in East Stroudsburg on Oct. 23.

An East Stroudsburg Police officer investigating the accident was told the driver of the vehicle was John Wayne. When he locate Wayne in Alex's Place at Eagle Valley Corners, it was discovered "John Wayne" was a name adopted by Whippert. The arrest was made.

In other court action Wednesday, the trial of John Valence of Stroudsburg, indicted for operating while under the influence, dragged late into the afternoon and was held over until today because not all the witnesses for the defense had been heard.

The incident involved in the case took place Jan. 2, 1972 when Valence was arrested for drunk driving on Route 191 by the Barrett Township Police.

On the witness stand Valence maintained he was not drunk on the night in question. He said he had consumed only three 12 ounce bottles of beer the entire evening before. He was picked up around 2:15 a.m.

To a statement by the arresting officer that he had been weaving across the center yellow line on the road, Valence said there was no yellow line in the center of the road. He said he had checked the road the day following his arrest.

Claims grudge

"The chief of police in Barrett Township has a bit of a grudge against me," Valence said, "and everybody up there knows it."

Valence attributed the alleged grudge to a "run in" he had with Police Chief Robert LaBar about a year ago when a newspaper operated by Valence did a story on an unsolved murder case in Barrett Township.

About the arresting officers, Valence said, "They were very rude and weren't like regular policemen would be."

Valence said he was taken to Pennsylvania State Police Barracks for a breathalyzer test. He refused to take the test. Valence said he did not take the test because he was confused about what it would mean.

The defendant said he was not told refusal to take the test could be used against him in court, nor was he told refusal to take the test would cost him his license for six months.

Valence said he did pick up four coins tossed on the floor to prove he was not intoxicated.

The court session drew to a close with the presentation of four character witnesses by the defense who supported Valence's testimony as to the amount of alcohol he consumed and his state of sobriety on the night of the arrest.

When counsel for the defense told the court two, possibly three more witnesses would be presented, Judge Arlington W. Williams ordered the case continued and adjourned court.

Miners may return to work

TAMAQUA, Pa. (UPI)—A full return to work by some 2,600 anthracite coal miners in four northeastern Pennsylvania counties could result from a meeting scheduled here tonight.

Representatives of about 1,500 dissident hard coal workers called for the meeting after most of the miners returned to work at all but four of some 30 mining operations in the coal fields of Schuylkill, Carbon, Northumberland and lower Luzerne counties.

About 300 miners, saying they represent the 1,500 dissatisfied men, planned to take a second back-to-work vote tonight.

Wildcat walkouts leap-frogged throughout the area last week when the miners balked at having no vote on a contract negotiated by the United Mine Workers (UMW) Union and signed in New York City last Sunday.

The miners had asked the UMW Wage Scale Committee to submit the new agreement to a rank-and-file vote before it was accepted. They were turned down.

Sewer, housing to be discussed

EAST STROUDSBURG — A heavily taxed sewer system and an ordinance restricting student housing will definitely be on the agenda as borough councilmen meet East Stroudsburg State College officials today.

With a college population of roughly half the last borough census of 7,800, East Stroudsburg faces the problem of providing utilities and housing for the academicians.

And according to borough councilmen, both housing and utilities for the college become a question of cost.

On the utility question the borough is interested in seeking the cooperation of the college for the construction of increased water facilities and for funding expanded sewer facilities.

A geographical survey completed in 1971 told the borough of the availability of approximately 500,000 gallons of water per day through two test wells on the ESSC campus.

The cost to put these wells on the borough water line is estimated to be $132,500 more than the $43,500 already spent on the project.

Since ESSC has never made a capital contribution, and because the college requirements are a considerable portion of the water demand, the borough will attempt to have college cooperation in getting Commonwealth funds for the project.

Critical situation

A similar, but perhaps more critical situation exists in East Stroudsburg with the sewer treatment plant and the expansion and increased usage by the college.

East Stroudsburg's plant was licensed by the state to handle one million gallons per day. In 1970 the borough was running a flow far in excess of this rate and the state ordered a ban on additional connections until the situation could be corrected.

ESSC's load on the plant was not included in the original design of the plant and the college has been charged only rental for the use of the plant.

Now the borough faces the probability of having to construct additional treatment facilities within the next two years.

The rates for sewer rental cannot be raised high enough to insure the college's share of the construction costs because of regulations covering the rates of public utilities.

A related issue to the sewer problem is East Stroudsburg's hopes of negotiating with the Delaware River Basin Commission over the DRBC's proposed tri-state regional sewer treatment plant.

Rather than be included in the giant plant, East Stroudsburg officials believe it will be less expensive to develop local sewer facilities. In order to negotiate, the borough has to come up with a plan.

A more recent issue of student housing will also be discussed in terms of cost.

One councilman said the expansion of the student housing area in the borough will require assurances from college officials the actions of the students will be supervised by the college.

He said the police force in the borough would be taxed if the number of complaints about students increased throughout the borough.

Past experience has proven the number of complaints involving students exceeds complaints for any other segment of the borough's population.

School opposes G.E. annexation

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg School Board aligned itself with Stroud Township supervisors Wednesday night when it voted to oppose the annexation of the General Electric plant. The vote was 6-0 with one abstention. Some directors indicated some of the issues involved needed greater study.

The plant, located in Stroud Township, is seeking the water and sewerage facilities of East Stroudsburg. The township can not supply them. East Stroudsburg, earlier of this month, adopted an ordinance stating it would move to annex the property.

If the annexation is justified, Stroudsburg School District would lose the tax revenue from the plant to the East Stroudsburg District.

Atty. Samuel Newman was given the nod to take any necessary action to prevent the acquisition. Atty. Detleff Hansen is proceeding for the Stroud Twp. supervisors to prevent the takeover.

In other action the board:

Accepted the resignations of Miss Diane M. Swallow, elementary teacher, and Mrs. Lucy Warner, elementary teacher who is retiring. Both are effective June 15.

Okayed the payment of $275 to David Kidd who had served as a junior high wrestling coach.

The board tabled Superintendent Samuel O. Wells' recommendation for the hiring of Mrs. Loretta Quamley, as psychologist for pre-school kindergarten testing. The service on a per deim rate of $33.33 would permit the testing of the children. But the board called for an executive session which was held at the end of the regular business. The vote favoring the tabling was 4-2.

Non-professional personnel hired were Mrs. Valeri Romano, business office secretary and George L. Loew, crossing guard at Ramsey School.

Pocono Mountain Jaycees request for the use of the school auditorium evoked a lengthy discussion. The Jaycees sought to use the auditorium on July 18,25 and August 1,8,9,15,17 and 18 for carrying out its Junior Miss pageant.

The board had to change its policy of $50 per night usage and voted to permit the usage at $25 per night plus custodial fees for the rehearsal nights (seven) but will charge $50 for the night of the performance.

However, the board pointed out, the agreement is contigent upon the Jaycees' payment of an outstanding balance totalling $650 plus custodial fees.

Subdivision law will be reviewed

STROUDSBURG — The Stroud Township Planning and Zoning Commission Tuesday discussed putting teeth into the municipality's subdivision ordinance to curb flagrant abuse of the regulation.

Although no definite steps were taken and it was recommended the matter would be discussed with legal counsel, the members of the commission stated they were concerned about land holders dividing their land without approval of the governing group.

Board members mentioned many lawyers will push through a deed because the subdivision ordinance is not being enforced either in Stroud Township or in Monroe County.

The infractions are usually not discovered until a land owner attempts to procure a building or sewage permit from the township when plot plans must be presented.

The members appeared inclined toward a cut-off date system of enforcement rather than going back through all filed deeds and checking for authenicity of approval.

In a related matter board members approved a request to have copies of other townships' subdivision ordinances made available to them so they could be studied to help determine if a minor subdivision addendum could be added to the regulation.

The proposed addition would permit fathers and grandparents to give a tract of land to one of their offspring without going through the lengthy procedure of having land surveyed, and having preliminary plans and final plot plans drawn up.

The "minor subdivision" would still require commission approval.

Preliminary plan

The presentation of a preliminry plan for "Tall Timbers" development, owned by Jack Harvey Lesoine, Jr. and Linda M. Lesoine brought another legal matter into the light.

The property, located off Route 611 in the vicinity of Wigwam Park Road, is located in a "R-1" and "C-2" commercial zone.

The owners of the tract are seeking either a variance or a change of zone, and requested the commission take the easiest route to approval of the tract which is slightly more than 11 acres in size.

The ribbon of commercial zone lines Rt. 611 in the area was designed to give property owners frontage on a major highway for a business establishment.

The members pondered whether allowing the owner to build single family dwellings on the property would be discriminatory to other owners of commercial land.

Since the commercial and residential zones are adjacent the board recommended the owners of land in residential zone would be allowed to build to the boundary of their property even if it was located in the commercial zone.

Such a move would require rezoning the area and the matter was also taken under advisement.

Fair seeks 'contributions'

STROUDSBURG — Action through contribution will be part of the Monroe County Earth Fair scheduled for 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at the Stroud Township Municipal Building on North Fifth Street.

The fair is being held in conjunction with Environmental Awareness Week.

In addition to the displays to be viewed and information to be dispensed on the inside, there will also be some action centered in the parking lot on the outside.

According to the Monroe County Environmental Action Group, sponsors of the fair, there will be three trucks from three separate organizations parked in the lot to the rear of the building.

The trucks will accept several kinds of articles to be recycled from anyone interested in contributing.

The Salvation Army, which is sending a truck from Scranton, will accept books, clean clothing, housewares and small household appliances which will be sold in its Scranton store.

The organization will also take magazines and clean rags. The magazines are recycled into paper stock and the rags into roofing compound.

The other trucks will be provided by the Hagan Manufacturing Co. of East Stroudsburg, and Packaging Corporation of America, Delaware Water Gap.

Both firms utilize only secondary materials in manufacturing their respective products.

Old newspapers may be deposited in the Hagan truck, while the Packaging Corporation truck will accept clean and flattened cardboard.

The newspapers are transformed into building insulation by Hagan and the cardboard becomes combination paperboard used for packaging and posters. Packaging Corporation also utilizes newspapers and waste paper from offices and factories in their process.

The environmental group asks all those who plan to attend the fair to bring along the items which can be recycled in the "spirit of Earth Week," rather than throwing them in the garbage can.

Old newspapers can be recycled. Take them to the Monroe County Earth Fair scheduled for 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at the Stroud Township Municipal Building where they can be deposited in trucks for that purpose. Be a contributor, not a litter bug.

Stroudsburg High students in favor of sex education

STROUDSBURG — A student survey conducted at Stroudsburg High School with members of the junior and senior classes showed 98 per cent of them favored sex education classes.

The poll was taken by a student group and was presented to the Stroudsburg School Board Wednesday night. About 400 students were questioned.

A partial report of the full survey also showed that one-third of the students had engaged in smoking. About 52 per cent of the smokers disclosed they had smoked in school. Of those in-school smokers, the report said, 36 per cent had been caught by the administrators.

Complete results of the survey are scheduled to appear in the next issue of the student newspaper.

Regarding a smoking lounge, 78 per cent favored it; 17.5 were opposed and 4.5 per cent were undecided.

Solicitor Samuel Newman informed the directors that smoking "was not legal" according to the Pennsylvania School Code.

Barrett officials okay takeover of four roads

MOUNTAINHOME — The Barrett Township Supervisors decided to take over four township roads Wednesday.

The assumption of the roads — Spruce, Hemlock, Locust and Dogwood — was an issue of long standing in the township. At the supervisors' March meeting citizens engaged in heated discussion over the delay in the road takeover.

Robert Wassel, a township citizen, said at that time persons living along the roads had spent considerable money getting the roads in shape to meet township standards.

Last night they announced the takeover.

The supervisors said they would begin their annual inspection of the township roads today. They said one of the first improvements on the list of traffic and road priorities would be a new stop light for Canadensis.

The light presently directing traffic flow in Canadensis has been cited by state authorities as out of date with state standards.

The supervisors were successful in getting an extension permit on the light for this year. Recent technical difficulties with the light prompted the supervisors to seek a new light before the deadline on the extension.

Blood drive set

STROUDSBURG — Bell Telephone Company workers will sponsor a blood drive from 12:45 to 5:45 p.m. Friday at the First Presbyterian Church of Stroudsburg. The public is invited to participate to help reach the goal of 125 pints.

Top students named

STROUDSBURG — Miss Mary Louise Mondell was named valedictorian for Stroudsburg High School and Robert S. Jacobs was selected as salutatorian.

The announcement was made by Principal James Hantjis.

Miss Mondell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mondell, of 1810 Laural Street, Stroud Township.

Jacobs, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jacobs, of 513 Sarah St., Stroudsburg.

'Coach's delight' makes his mark

By CHUCK FIERSON
Record Sports Editor

EAST STROUDSBURG — His high school coach says he's "everything a coach could want." The editor of a national high school basketball publication calls him "a big time player." His future college coach says he's "a perfect addition" to the program.

Greg Miller, the lanky 6-5, 170-pound-all-league center at East Stroudsburg High School was virtually unnoticed until midway through last season. But after participating in the 13th annual Schoolboy Basketball Classic at Harrisburg, he had to turn the recruiters away.

Miller, a first team selection on the Lehigh-Northampton League Northern Division team, finally chose George Washington in the nation's capital. He eliminated offers from St. Joseph's (Pa.), LaSalle, Seton Hall, Niagara, Tennessee and Virginia among others.

Scott Beeten, who coached East Stroudsburg to its second best season in the school's history, says "nothing he does surprises me."

"He has the potential to be a great player," Beeten adds. "What he does surprises himself more than anybody else. He has a tendency to underrate himself. But he's just a phenominal person.

"He's great with kids, he's got a great attitude and is a natural leader. He's just everything a coach could want."

When Greg Miller, left, and Scott Beeten get together, chances are the topic is just one thing — basketball.

Miller averaged 18.8 points per game last season, hitting a career high of 35 points against Hellertown. He was then chosen to play on the Eastern Pennsylvania team in the Harrisburg tournament.

It was during this post-season classic that Miller started to come alive. In the first game of the tournament, he scored 19 points against the Central Pennsylvania all-stars.

It was after this game that Howard Garfinkle, editor of High School Basketball Illustrated, a scholastic magazine based in New York City, called Miller "a big time college prospect."

Miller came back the next night and scored 18 points against the Philadelphia all-stars. He repeated his first night performance by holding All-America Mike Arizo, son of the former National Basketball Assn. great, to 10 points.

After the tournament Garfinkle called Miller "the sleeper of the year."

"He made an explosion heard all over the place," Garfinkle said. "He challenged the big kids and he was quicker than most forwards. He played phenominal defense. "He's an excellent college prospect due to his tremendous speed as a forward, especially on defense.

"He's also good enough to help most teams as a second guard. He is so versital most colleges would be happy to have him. He has great range, quick hands and handles the ball well."

George Washington head coach Carl Sloan said he was "Very pleased and excited" about the prospect of having Miller. "We had one of the outstanding freshmen teams in the country last year," Sloan added, "and I feel he is a perfect addition.

"Not only is he an excellent basketball player, but an excellent student," Sloan pointed out. Miller ranks 28th in a graduating class of 160 students.

"We feel he will make a definite contribution to George Washington's basketball program."

Carlton defeats ex-teammates

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Steve Carlton, making his first appearance for the Philadelphia Phillies, outpitched former teammate Bob Gibson and Deron Johnson singled in the only run of the game in the sixth inning Wednesday night in a 1-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Carlton, traded by the Cardinals because he angered clubowner Gussie Busch by holding out, pitched a three-hitter and struck out five.

The Phillies scored the game's only run off Gibson when Willie Montanez tripled to open the sixth inning and scored on Johnson's single. The Phillies had tried to trade Johnson all winter and are playing him reluctantly this season while playing youthful prospect Greg Luzinski in the outfield.

The Cardinals' best threat came with two out in the ninth when Ted Sizemore sent a drive 400 feet into deep left center but Montanez pulled it in on the warning track to end the game.

Cowens leads revitalized Celtics

New York defeated 115-109

BOSTON (UPI) — Dave Cowens shook off two bad games and poured in 23 points Wednesday night to lead the revitalized Boston Celtics to a 115-109 win over New York that cut the Knicks' lead to 2-1 in their best-of-seven National Basketball Association Eastern Conference championship series.

The Celtics trailed 96-92 when Jo Jo White popped in a jumper from the right corner and Cowens hit on a jumper, a hook shot and a free throw to send Boston in front for good at 99-96 with 6:15 left in the game.

Cowens, who averaged 18.9 points a game during the regular season but dipped to 10.5 in the first two games of the current series, added 16 rebounds to his performance Wednesday night.

John Havlicek paced the Celtics in scoring with 26 points and had 15 rebounds. Bill Bradley led New York with 29 points and Walt Frazier scored 28.

The Celtics led 55-47 at the half on the strength of 12-point second quarters from both Cowens and Havlicek.

But the Knicks chipped away at the Boston lead and finally moved to a 77-76 advantage on a pair of free throws by Earl Monroe with 2:42 remaining in the third quarter.

New York increased its lead to 89-83 on the shooting of Bradley and Frazier before Boston moved back into contention on a pair of free throws by Havlicek and a jumper from the right side by Cowens to cut the margin to 89-87 with 10:15 left in the game.

The teams then traded baskets until the seven point string put the Celtics on top to stay.

The two teams meet in New York Friday in the fourth game of the series, then return here Sunday.

Robertson difference for Bucs

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Bob Robertson slammed a two-run homer in the eighth inning to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 5-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs Wednesday night.

Robertson, who had only one hit in 11 at bats entering the game, connected on a 3-2 pitch off Juan Pizzaro after Roberto Clemente led off the inning with a single. Robertson's homer, his first of the year, reached the second deck of seats above the 385-foot sign in left field.

Sutton two-hits Atlanta by 4-0

ATLANTA (UPI)—Don Sutton gave up only two hits Wednesday night to pitch the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 4-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves and pick up his second win of the season.

Maury Wills got Sutton the only run he really needed in the first inning when he led off with a triple, his first hit in 19 at bats, and scored on an infield out by Bill Buckner.

The Dodgers wrapped it up in the ninth when they scored three runs off relief pitcher Jim Nash on a walk, an error and three singles.

Sutton gave up a double to Rico Carty in the second inning and a leadoff single to Marty Perez in the third but was never seriously threatened.

Nicklaus to defend title in tourney of champions

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (UPI) — Defending champion Jack Nicklaus, the Masters champion, is the man to beat once again starting today in the $165,000 72-hole MONY Tournament of Champions.

But there are any number of other pros in this elite field of 26 who may find the incentive to bounce back into the winner's circle and pick up $33,000 here at La Costa Country Club's 7,000-plus-yard layout, a par 36-36—72.

Nicklaus won by eight strokes last year when the rough was high and the fairways narrow.

The course has been loosened up, according to resident pro Tommy Jacobs.

"The rough is not as rough," he explained. "There's a shorter collar closer to the fairways. The fairways which ran about 25 yards wide on some holes are now about 35."

Las Vegas oddsmakers quoted Nicklaus a 4-1 favorite, shortest price in the 20-year history of this tournament for which only winners of major PGA events and the British Open qualify.

Arnold Palmer, at 42, 10 years older than Nicklaus, is here for a crack at his fourth T of C title. Lee Trevino who hasn't won since last fall's Sahara Invitational, is back and is rated the second favorite at 8-1.

Billy Casper won only one tournament last year the Kaiser and has been off his game. He has never won in 15 T of C starts.

Palmer is not through as Nicklaus' No. 1 challenger by any means.

"I like to beat Nicklaus and I'll try to beat him any time I get the chance," he says. "But I'd like to be 32 ..."

Trevino shot a 74 in the first round of the Monsanto Open last week and quit, pleading exhaustion. He said he wanted to rest up for the Tournament of Champions and his fans will have the chance to find out whether he really did during the next four days.

Others in the elite field are Frank Beard, George Archer, Dave Stockton, Miller Barber, Tony Jacklin, Bruce Crampton, Tom Weiskopf, Homero Blancas, Bob Goalby, Bob Rosburg, Paul Harney and Gardner Dickinson, all of whom have had at least one chance at this title.

First timers here are Hale Irwin, Grier Jones, Johnny Miller, Jerry Heard, Dave Eichelberger, Bobby Mitchell, Labron Harris Jr., DeWitt Weaver and Hubert Green. The last man to get in was the Monsanto winner, Dave Hill.

Gary Player qualified but decided to go back home to South Africa after the Masters. Gene Littler, the only other qualifier during the past 12 months is recuperating from cancer surgery.

Pen Argyl gains 5-3 victory

PEN ARGYL — Dennis Bruch, making his first varsity start, fired a five-hitter Wednesday to lead Pen Argyl to a 5-3 baseball victory over Northwestern.

Bruch, a junion righthander, struck out five and walked two.

Pen Argyl scored three runs in the first inning when Barry Fisher walked and Steve Gergar got on through an error. After both runners stole, Rhys Williams doubled them both in and scored on Ted Long's single.

The Knights, 4-2, added another in the third when Williams walked and Dave Snyder and George Kohan singled. The Pirates added two in the fourth before Gergar homered in the bottom of the inning.

Unearned run gives Sox win

CHICAGO (UPI) — Carlos May raced home from third base on Tony Randall's throwing error in the ninth inning Wednesday to give the Chicago White Sox a 2-1 victory over the Texas Rangers.

The unearned run broke a 1-1 tie and gave the pitching victory to former New York Yankees Stan Bahnsen who worked the full distance for the White Sox.

The White Sox scored their first run in the fourth when Jorge Orta ignored a holdup signal at third base and romped home from second on a single to short center field.

The Rangers scored their only run off Bahnsen in the eight. Elliot Maddox singled, stole second and came home when Dave Nelson stroked a single.

Michael's bases loaded triple Yankees winner

NEW YORK (UPI)—Light hitting Gene Michael, who batted only .214 and .244 in his last two major league seasons, knocked in three runs with a bases-loaded triple in the fifth inning Wednesday to give Mike Kekich and the New York Yankees a 3-2 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Kekich was breezing along with a two-hitter until two out in the ninth when Ron Theobold lined his second single of the game to center and Johnny Briggs smacked a long home run into the right center field bleachers.

Kekich was lifted by manager Ralph Houk and newly-acquired Sparky Lyle came on to get George Scott to ground to short and end the game.

Kekich, pitching effortlessly in 84 degree heat before 5,502 fans, struck out four and walked only one.

Roy White led off the Yankee fifth by lining a single off Milwaukee starter Ken Brett's glove and went to second when the Brewers' lefthander threw wildly past first base. Felipe Alou singled White to third and took an extra base himself when right fielder Billy Conigliaro threw home.

After Munson struck out, Rusty Torres was walked intentionally, filling the bases and Michael then lined his triple over LaHoud's head.

Brett had faced the minimum of 12 through the first four innings before he ran into trouble in the disastrous fifth.

McCraw hitting backs Indians

BOSTON (UPI)—First baseman Tom McCraw hit two singles, stole two bases, and scored two runs while Gaylord Perry and Steve Mingori pitched five-hit baseball to give the Cleveland Indians a 3-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

McCraw opened the scoring in the second inning when he singled to right, stole second base, and crossed the plate as shortstop Luis Aparicio threw wildly to first base on Buddy Bell's infield hit.

Two innings later McCraw singled to center, again stole second and scored on Ray Fosse's base hit to left as Cleveland took a 2-0 lead.

Perry drove in the final Cleveland run with a sacrifice fly to center that scored Fosse from third base.

SWIFTWATER — The Pocono Mountain Booster Club is to meet at 8 p.m. today at the Highland Inn, Swiftwater.

Two 10th inning singles loser for Warriors, 4-3

EAST STROUDSBURG — Two bloop singles in the 10 inning gave Kutztown a run and a 4-3 Pennsylvania Conference baseball victory over East Stroudsburg State College Wednesday.

The win was the first for the Bears under new coach John Polischak after four defeats. ESSC is now 5-7-1.

With one out in the tenth, Rich Zuber, looped a hit to short leftfield. Leftfielder Lee Hunter made a diving attempt but his momentum knocked the ball off his glove.

Zuber stole second base and then southpaw relief pitcher Tom Fetzer struck out Darrell Williams for the second out. Playing the percentages, righthander Tom Aten was brought in to face the next two hitters, both righties.

Aten walked Austin Maxwell intentionally to face Dave Dietrich. But Dietrich dropped a single to short centerfield and Zuber dashed home with the winning run.

Charlie Hansler, who received the win, and starter Kim Edwards limited the Warriors to four hits.

A two-out triple by Maxwell to deep centerfield and Dietrich's ground single to center put Kutztown on top, 1-0, in the first inning.

Zuber beat out a bunt single, one of his three hits, with two out in the third. He took third base on Ron Ziegler's line single to left and the pair then worked a successful double steal for another run.

Tom Bedics got the first ESSC hit in the sixth inning on a grounder up the middle which second basemen Win Coosaboon reached but couldn't make a play. Scott Myers also legged out an infield single and Al Frick sacrificed both runners.

With two out, Wilson slashed a hard grounder which third baseman Maxwell booted, allowing Bedics to score and tie the game.

In the bottom of the tenth, Frick walked with two out, but Hansler struck, out Mark Hoffner to end the game.

Very own match show for Poconos

By RUTHE B. YOUNG
Pocono Mt. Kennel Club

The slogan for our first AKC sanctioned match show and obedience trial is "Try it, you'll like it," and accordingly, we are inviting local residents and visitors to the area to come on out to the West End Fairgrounds this Sunday, April 23rd because if you try it, we know you'll like it!

Junior Showmanship competition for junior handlers from 8 to 16 years of age will start off the day at 11 a.m. There is no entry fee for these classes which are divided by age: one class for juniors eight to 12, another for juniors 12 to 16.

At 11:30 a.m., Obedience Trials commence and will continue throughout the day. This event will be held in the horse show arena where there are grandstands available, and spectators may view all four rings being judged simultaneously.

Also at 11:30 a.m., the Puppy Sweepstakes will begin with classes being divided by sex and age: three to six months, six to nine months and nine to 12 months, and judging taking place in six rings simultaneously. Cash prizes will be awarded in each class, and an engraved silver-plate trophy will be given to the best puppy in sweepstakes.

Following the sweepstakes, conformation judging takes place at 1:15 p.m. by six extremely well-qualified judges who are notable in the dog fancy.

Claire Andrews of Providence, R. I. will judge Sporting breeds. Hound breeds will be done by licensed judge, H. M. Creesap of Brooklyn, N.Y. Dobermans, German Shepherds, Danes and Shelties will be judged by Mrs. Marilyn Deeter of Southampton, Pa. Licensed judge, Carl Wood of Alpha, N. J. will do the balance of the Working breeds.

Terrier and Toy breeds will be judged by Robert Jacques of New York City, and Non-Sporting breeds judged by Philip Lanard of Warwick, R. I.

Ribbons will be awared in each class, and there will be special prizes for each breed winner. Dogs taking first in their groups will receive lovely rosettes as well as silver-plated trophies. At the conclusion of the day, the best adult and best puppy in match will be chosen with accompanying rosettes and silver-plated trays to honor the occasion. The highest scoring dog in obedience will also receive a rosette and tray.

Entries will be taken from 9 to 11:30 a.m. The entry fee for obedience and conformation is $1.50 per dog, and for sweepstakes, $1. There will be a grounds admission charge of 50c with children under 12 admitted free. Exhibitors should plan on arriving well in advance of the 11:30 closing for entries, while spectators may arrive any time during the day and be assured of seeing ten rings full of activities.

Delicious Pennsylvania Dutch food prepared and served by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Kresgeville Fire Company will be available at the match throughout the day at the indoor dining hall.

We've ordered a delightful spring day for Sunday, but in case of rain there will be indoor judging rings and plenty of space indoors for grooming dogs, and just plain keeping dry.

The West End Fairgrounds is located just off Route 209 in Gilbert, midway between Stroudsburg and the Mahoning Valley exit of the Pa. Turnpike. Match goers should look for and follow the dog show arrows to the show grounds. For more information on the match, phone 421-1658 or 215-681-4639.

War lowers stock prices

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market, reacting quickly Wednesday to news of an attack by North Vietnamese MIGs on U.S. warships in the Gulf of Tonkin, turned lower in active trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 selected blue chip stocks fell 4.14 to 964.78. Standard and Poor's 500 stock index lost 0.57 to 109.20. The price of an average share of New York Stock Exchange common stock fell 25 cents.

Volume totaled 19,180,000 shares compared to 19,410,000 Tuesday. Declines broadly outnumbered advances, 977 to 483, among the 1,786 issues crossing the tape.

Analyst Newton Zinder of E.F. Hutton said the decline was touched off by news of the North Vietnamese attacks on U.S. ships just north of the demilitarized zone. The air attacks were the first of the war against U.S. warships.

Also, "The market has been acting a bit tired over the past few days," Zinder said.

Harry Laubscher, of Walston & Co., said "It is not surprising to see a little selling. We don't expect it to be excessive," he said.

Federal National Mortgage topped the most active list with a volume of 370,900 shares. It closed off 1¼ at 22⅞M. The company reported first quarter earnings sharply above last year's first quarter but not as good as the fourth quarter of 1971.

Pfizer, Inc., was second, up ⅜ at 8⅛ on 295,000 shares. The company has reported higher first quarter earnings, and Republic Corp. followed, off ½ at 40½ on 294,400 shares.

Texas Instruments, which reported first quarter earnings of 97 cents a share compared to 74 cents a share for the first quarter of 1971, was one of the few bright spots, gaining 2¼.

Other electronic and computer issues were softer. IBM plunged 3¾, Control Data 3, and Burroughs, Honeywell and Motorola, around 2 each.

Curtiss Wright picked up 1⅜ after Chrysler announced it has been having some discussion with rights holders concerning the Wankel rotary engine. Curtiss Wright has the exclusive rights in North America to the Wankel engine. Chrysler eased ⅜.

Chemicals and oils were mixed. Monsanto gakned 1⅛; Eastman Kodak lost 1⅞. Softer oils included Superior, down 5, Natomas, down 2⅜ AND Kerr-McGee, 1⅝.

Steels, motors, rails, airlines and aircrafts were narrowly mixed.

Some of the glamour issues were on the weaker side. They included Purolator, down 4; Levitz Furniture, 3⅞; Bausch & Lomb, 3, Walt Disney, 2, and Polaroid and Itek, around a point each.

Those stocks moving down sharply included Knight Newspapers, off 3; Holiday Inns "A" and Winnebago Industries, each down 3½. Gannett Co. gained 3½ to 77½.

Prices were lower in fairly active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The Amex index dropped 0.20 to 28.29. Volume totaled 5,720,000 shares compared to 6,260,000 Tuesday.

Married to the former Marie Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Albert have one son, John Albert. Albert is a life member of the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church and is a sports enthusiast with a preference for football and baseball.

Ann Landers

Hooked on spray

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter for the benefit of others who don't know they can get hooked on nose drops and nasal sprays.

It started when I was pregnant and having trouble breathing. The doctor suggested a nasal decongestant. He said the directions were on the bottle. To make a long story short, I got hooked. It became embarrassing -- spraying all the time, leaving restaurant tables sometimes three or four times to go spray my nasal passages. If I ran out of decongestant I panicked -- like an addict who needed a fix.

When I told my doctor I was afraid I was addicted he said, "The only way to get off is to quit using it." I tried, but my sinuses swelled up and my eyes became red and puffy. My throat was so sore I could barely swallow. I finally got off the stuff by medicating only one nostril and letting the other one heal. Then I suffered through, cold turkey, with the second nostril.

Please tell people to be careful. Just because a product can be purchased without a prescription doesn't mean it is safe.

One Who Nose

Dear One: You told them, and in a way I couldn't have. And I might add that you certainly didn't get much help from your doctor.He should have prescribed other medication that would have provided relief and unhooked you.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 17-year-old overweight girl. Last year I went on a diet and lost 38 pounds. I bought three size 8 dresses and four pairs of tight-fitting slacks. I was thrilled to be able to get into them. Then, for some mysterious reason, I began to overeat again. I lost complete control of myself and gained 45 pounds.

My sister who has never seen a fat day in her life has been wearing my size 8 clothes. When I catch her, the battles start. She has plenty of clothes and there is no good reason for her to be sneaking mine.

When I ask my mother to make her stop she says, "You are acting like a spoiled brat. Lose weight and wear them yourself, then your sister won't be tempted."

Is it fair? Am I behaving like a spoiled brat? Please give me some advice.

Plump But Not Pleasing Anyone

Dear Plump: I don't like to tell a teen-ager her mom is off base, but yours is. She should insist that your sister leave your clothes alone. This problem, however, is small compared with 45 pounds of excess baggage at age 17. I urge you to get a complete physical checkup. If there is no orangic reason for your obesity, get on a doctor's diet and stay on it. I recommend counseling also. It sounds as if your unresolved emotional problems are compelling you to overeat.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I haven't been married very long and we need some advice from a person who has had some experience with bosses and business — especially executives.

Jimmy went to work for this firm 15 months ago. Yesterday he received an unexpected bonus. Of course we were thrilled. The money means a great deal, but the fact that he was rewarded for his work means even more. What we want to know is this: Would it be all right if we wrote a thank-you letter to the boss or would it be out of line?

Cloud 19

Dear 19: A letter of appreciation is never out of line. The letter should be from your husband, however, not from you. And keep it simple. Excessive gushiness can be embarrassing.

Dear Ann Landers: My next door neighbor is a young mother, as I am, and she has asked me for advice. I told her I was no Ann Landers, but I'd try. Now I find myself writing to you — which is what SHE should have done.

Her three-year-old son will not eat. The reason she asked me for advice is because I have no feeding problem with my two kids (ages 4 and 2). She wants to know why. She pulls her hair out of her head and her son is practically starving himself. I pay no attention to my kids' eating habits and I have no problem whatever. My kids would eat a horseshoe dipped in chocolate if I gave it to them. What should I tell her? I don't know the answer.

Relaxed Ma In Sherman, Texas

Dear Sherm: The answer is in your letter. Your neighbor is pulling the hair out of her head and you are "Relaxed In Sherman."

If she'd stop making a federal case out of what her son eats and what he doesn't eat, he'd eat better. The plate can be the battlefield on which Ma and offspring fight their most devastating wars. Finicky eaters usually get that way because it's a good mechanism for getting attention. Funny how a three-year-old can outsmart his mother.

Are you, or someone you care about messing around with drugs — or considering it? Are all drugs bad? What about pot — in moderation? Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs" separates the facts from the fiction. For each booklet ordered send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (16 cents postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654.

Barb Nabors, Margaret Adams Bryan and Katchie Cartwright see visions of terrible things as witches of the blasted heath in opening scenes of Macbeth.

Scenes—and behind them—at Macbeth

Backstage crew studies lighting and scenery cues for Phoenix Players' presentation of Macbeth, running tonight through Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at Stroudsburg High School. From left are Henry Lee, Jim Winstrom, Sandy Moore and Mary Vanderslice. (George Arnold photos)

Macbeth and Lady Macbeth — actually John Davis and Astrid Keuler — huddle after the deed is done. Duncan is dead and Macbeth is king.

Youth arrested on drug charge

MILFORD — State police from Milford arrested a 15-year-old juvenile student at Delaware Valley High School Monday and charged him with selling dangerous drugs.

The youth, who was turned over to the custody of his mother pending court action, was arrested by Trooper Michael Chaplin who allegedly witnessed the youth selling dangerous drugs in the borough of Milford on February 24.

ARIES

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Make this a day to remember. Lighten pressures by eliminating nonessentials from your schedule. Move with easy action, quiet thought.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Much can be accomplished in both the planning and doing stage. It need not be all work or business. Include social and personal matters in your program.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — New opportunities indicated in many fields. A moderate pace, accented by progressive moves, will be your best recipe for handling them.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Trend is to enjoy the day as the spirit moves you — to let things slide — but don't be misdirected or overly social. MAKE yourself get back on the beam.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Don't "follow the crowd" when your own gifts of leadership are so great. With your usual ingenuity and originality, you can put this day far out of the ordinary.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — A day for forethought. Give all activities your deluxe treatment. Smile through possible pressing moments. Results promised from earnest efforts.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — A late start is usually one's own fault. If you need a bit of a push, call it up. Avoid pessimism. Consider the suitable suggestions of others. Gains ARE possible.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Stellar influences stimulate both individuality and cooperation. Like Libra, listen to sage advice. Plan a program designed to make the most of time and talents — at work OR play.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — At times the line is thin between the constructive and the destructive. Take due care in making the neat distinction. Study situations as they arise. With your talents, you can cope.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Saturn influences suggest that you train thoughts along constructive lines as you move discreetly. Penetrate below the surface to learn the full truth in all situations.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Tact and orderliness are the traits to emphasize now. Some of your future objectives are shaping up. Don't upset the applecart.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Discretion urged in all activities. On this day, wisely planned efforts will keep you from drifting, being short-sighted.

YOU BORN TODAY, an Aries-Taurus cuspal (one born as the Sun was entering Taurus), combine the outstanding traits of both Signs. You have the ambition, aggressiveness, imagination and resourcefulness of the Arien coupled with the obstinacy and materialism of the Taurean. You are less selfish than the Arien, more inclined to warm-hearted giving as is the Taurean. With all this variation in characteristics, you sometimes experience emotional conflict but, once having acquired understanding of self, you should have a successful — and happy life. You have unusual creative abilities and could excel, especially, as a painter, designer, interior decorator or theatrical entertainer. Your love of the outdoors is outstanding and you could also make a name for yourself as an agriculturist, horticulturist or botanist. Birthdate of Dinah Craik, Eng. novelist; Lionel Hampton, jazz musician.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 4-20

SWIMMING POOL ADVICE
by
Brian M. Fenner, Sr.

Now that warm weather is here, don't wait too long to open your pool. Why, you ask; the reason is that by keeping the cover on your pool through the first hot days may cause a serious algae build-up. This situation occurs because algae thrives on warmth and your pool water, with the cover on, is a stagnate body. There is no circulation and relatively no chemical action present to halt this build-up.

So pool owners, save time, labor and most important, money, by getting your pool open for the season now. This will also allow the water to warm-up sooner — thus a longer and more enjoyable swimming season.

For any advice concerning your pool, please call — without obligation — BCB Building Co., Dealer for Buster Crabbe Pools — the best in the world — 992-6878 or 992-4914. (Adv.)

WHY WE CAN'T SELL YOU A SMALL VOLVO.

Volvos are built in Sweden where, as you see, the high growth rate is measured in feet as well as economic output. Since Sweden is not a little man's country, it would make little sense for Volvo to be his car. The Volvos in our showroom were designed to accommodate knees without scrunching and heads without banging. Which means that if you come to us looking for something in a small Volvo, we'll have to disappoint you.
